KEY TO GO ON AIR IN RECALL BATTLE

Registration will continue for Tuesday's recall election until 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and all those who have paid 1931 state, county and city taxes are qualified to register. All who have registered since October 15 are qualified and need not register again. Women who own no taxable property need only to register and no taxes are required of them.

Mayor James L. Key will lead the list of recall speakers in the fight to prevent his ouster when he faces the microphone at 8 o'clock tonight over WSB. Other speakers today will be Alderman G. Everett Millican, over WSB, beginning at 9:45 o'clock tonight; Councilman James T. Wells, WGST, beginning at 6:10 o'clock; John Sibley, WGST, beginning at 9:45; Lester Laskie, WJTL, beginning at 7:15 this morning; V. P. Warren, WJTL, beginning at 12:30 this afternoon, and Robert Corley, WJTL, beginning at 7:30 tonight.

Charging that an organized "flying voting squadron" is tacitly supported by so-called labor leaders in an effort to place hundreds of illegal votes in the 32 ballot boxes in which voters Tuesday will decide the fate of Mayor James L. Key, he hurled Sunday night by Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, managing the anti-recall headquarters. His accusations were met with a promise that every force of organized government will be utilized in the effort to "prevent crooked voting" and stuffing of ballot boxes.

According to information reaching anti-recall headquarters, the names of all registrants of a ward are carried on the lists of all precincts of that ward. The so-called flying squadron is preparing to vote in one precinct and then in the others, thereby casting from one to three ballots. Another feature is the registration and voting by certificate. The reports are that many persons are registering several times while the various deputy clerks who do not know them, and from several different wards. Those registering now are given certificates entitling them to cast ballots. They could vote as many times as they had certificates.

Gilliam said Solicitor-General John A. Boykin will be appealed to and that grand jury investigation of any irregularities will be demanded "if

RELIGION IGNORED, METHODISTS TOLD BY BISHOP MOORE

President of North Georgia Conference Preaches Before Missionary Council at St. Mark Church.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Religion today is not discredited, but ignored, according to the statements of Bishop John M. Moore, president of the North Georgia annual Methodist conference, as he preached to the Woman's Missionary Council at St. Mark Methodist church Sunday morning. The bishop judged that men today have ignored religion without discounting it, and have devoted their energies to other activities, thus allowing man's earth to eclipse God's heaven.

As Bishop Moore spoke to the council members, he urged that they, as leaders of the Christian forces should devote themselves to building a highway for the King, clearing the desert and waste places, bringing back into human life the authority of God. Depressions, like unto deserts, may be expected, said the bishop, so long as men exclude the things of heaven.

As men today have thought of material preparations for the coming of the Eternal King, like unto ancient road-building when a monarch would visit a province, they have lost conception of God and the real kingdom of heaven. He illustrated this with reference to France destroying the Bastille, overthrowing the reigning power which was allied with the church of that day. Also the same thing occurred in Russia, when the czars were deposed, and with them the church, of which the czars were the head. The religion that is based on sovereign decrees must pass away, when the sovereign power is abolished.

Religion's Importance Stressed.

Bishop Moore urged that men today should realize that the religion of real faith and power enters into thought, society, activities, and that for religion to prove its genuineness, it must be a builder of newer high things.

'Not Our Son,' Says Lindbergh

The picture at the top is of the child in Crossville, Tenn., which was believed to be the kidnapped Lindbergh baby. This picture was shown from Crossville to Atlanta by Ben Cofran, former Constitution sports writer and present city editor of The Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal, and Walter Self, Knoxville pilot. From Atlanta the picture was sent by photo to Trenton, N. J., and by special messenger from Trenton to Colonel Lindbergh at Hopewell. Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh after studying the picture announced that the ear convinced them the subject was not their kidnapped baby. The bottom picture is a recent one of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

A Recall Questionnaire

Q.—What are the charges against Mayor Key?

A.—First, that he is unfit for office because in a casual interview in Paris he expressed the opinion that prohibition enforcement was a failure in America; second, that he is unfriendly to labor because he vetoed an appropriation of $4,300 to be used as extra compensation above contract price for workers constructing the new administration building at Candler field.

Q.—Why did Mayor Key veto this appropriation?

A.—Because it would have been a bonus to a small group of men already at work, when thousands were walking the streets without employment and the city treasury was faced with a huge deficit; and because the mayor held it would have set a dangerous precedent which could have been used as an excuse for future class raids on the treasury.

Q.—Is the mayor charged with either corruption or malfeasance in office?

A.—No.

Q.—Has the recall of any American mayor ever been asked on such charges as those made against Mayor Key?

A.—No.

Q.—Who is back of the effort to recall Mayor Key?

A.—The Greater Atlanta Prohibition and Law Enforcement Club, organized by John A. Manget in the effort to bring about the recall, and those who induced council to enact the bonus appropriation vetoed by the mayor.

Q.—Do these groups represent the united "reform" and labor elements of the city?

A.—No. Many of the city's most prominent churchmen and advocates of prohibition have protested both the effort to recall Mayor Key and the manner in which it has been gone about; several labor unions have already protested the use of the name of organized labor.

Q.—Has it been definitely established that crookedness and deception were practiced in securing the names for the recall petitions?

A.—Yes, as proven by the fact that Mr. Manget has sworn out warrants for some of the solicitors hired to obtain the names at 15 cents per name.

Q.—Has it been charged that both the Manget and his allied lists are fraudulent?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Of what nature is this fraud?

A.—Forgery; deliberate inclusion of old lists gotten up for an entirely different purpose; the misrepresentation of the purpose of the petition; and the fact that nearly a third of those signing had either not paid the necessary taxes or do not appear on the tax digest.

Q.—Are the petitions on which the election has been called valid?

A.—No.

Q.—Why?

A.—Because the legal signatures on them do not represent 25 per cent of the registration as called for by law.

Q.—How many of the signatures appearing on the lists are illegal because of fraud, forgery or failure to pay taxes?

A.—The expert audit shows approximately one-half.

Q.—Why, then, did council order the election?

A.—Because the city clerk certified the lists to council, which was informed by the city attorney it had no other recourse than to order the election.

MINISTER LEADS FLOCK TO SAFETY AS CHURCH BURNS

Bethany Methodist Building Is Razed; Four Residents Damaged in Busy Day for Fire Department

Presence of mind of the pastor saved about 80 Bible school attendants from possible injury Sunday morning when fire razed the frame structure of the Bethany Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Bankhead avenue and Elizabeth place.

All those attending the Sunday school, including nearly 50 children under 12 years of age, escaped injury. The church itself was a total loss. The fire was one of a series of 23 reported Sunday morning and afternoon. One of the others being the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, at Hunter street and Central avenue, and two of the fires spreading to such an extent as to endanger entire blocks in the residential district.

Similarly, the Bethany church fire was discovered by Roy Coursey, 12-year-old boy, who had arrived late for the Sunday school class. Roy noted flames on the roof of the structure as he arrived from his home. He immediately informed the pastor, the Rev. S. H. Dixon, who calmly announced that there was a "small fire" on the roof and, with the assistance of F. E. Dwyer, chairman of the church board of deacons, ushered the 80 persons in the building into the street, where a number joined with the fire department a minute or two later in fighting the blaze.

Four Planes Saved.

Though the structure itself was destroyed at a loss estimated at about $7,000, part of the church equipment, including four pianos, was saved. Members of the congregation and the fire department succeeded in keeping the flames from spreading to a recently constructed clubhouse in the rear of the church.

As soon as it became apparent that there was no hope of saving the building, Mr. Dixon announced that the regular morning service would be conducted in the clubhouse and the service got under way before the fire department left the scene.

Mr. Dwyer said Sunday night that the church undoubtedly would be replaced by a new structure.

Peculiar Formation of Ear of Baby Held in South Results in Decision of Lindy, Anne.

BY W. W. CHAPLIN.

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press.)

HOPWELL, N. J., March 13.—A baby resembling the stolen son of the Lindberghs was projected into the foreground of the police search from a remote Tennessee town and then definitely eliminated in a few swift strokes against fresh clues engaged the child hunters.

The statement by Sheriff Baxter Swiggard at Crossville, Tenn., that he had detained four persons with a baby answering the description of the kidnapped infant excited the interest of a sympathetic nation until Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh themselves took a hand in settling the question of identification.

From a telephoto picture of the Tennessee tot by the Associated Press photo service the Lindberghs decided that the child was not theirs. A peculiar formation of the ear of the baby held in the south convinced them.

The picture, hurried by plane from Crossville to Atlanta to New York by telephoto process, and thence by special courier here—was finally placed in their hands by Colonel H. Norman Schwartzkopf, head of the state police. Later the authorities here toward those taken into custody in Tennessee.

"No, that's not our baby," said the Lindberghs after a tense study of the picture.

Meanwhile, Colonel Schwartzkopf told in a police bulletin of the activity of two investigators at York, Pa., sent there on information supplied by Pennsylvania police authorities.

"As soon as our investigators return and make a report this information will be given to the press," said Colonel Schwartzkopf.

"It is impossible to answer at this time as to whether there is any person or persons under direct suspicion as a direct answer might have a tendency to obstruct the police activity now in progress. It would take a great deal of time to definitely compile statistics showing how many persons were interviewed by our investigators."

Earlier he had said the police investigation had not disclosed any definite information of a concrete nature leading to a solution of the case.

Colonel Schwartzkopf announced that Attorney General Stevens, of New Jersey, had visited Hopewell during the day and discussed details of the crime with him. He added, however, that there had been no conference of any outside agencies at the Hopewell headquarters today.

When the decision of the Lindberghs on the Tennessee child was reached, Colonel Schwartzkopf repeated information that one of the persons held in Crossville had stopped in Elliston, Va., with the same baby at 8:30 p. m. March 12, (the night of the kidnapping) and had been subsequently investigated and released by Virginia authorities.

Definite announcement was made that Colonel Lindbergh had spent the twelfth day since the kidnapping at his bleak hilltop home, but the whereabouts of the secret emissaries of the colonel who are making a private hunt for the baby, was as much of a mystery as ever.

SWEDISH APPROVE HOLIDAY ON DEBTS

Cabinet Grants Moratorium to Kreuger Interests as Solons Act.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Monday, March 14.—(P)—Both chambers of the Swedish riksdag today adopted a bill authorizing the government to grant companies or persons a short moratorium on payment of debts. The action was a repudiation to the debt of Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish match king, who killed himself in a Paris apartment Saturday just before he was to have held a financial conference.

Minister of Finance Felix Hamrin opened the debate in the upper chamber and emphasized that the powers conferred in the measure would be employed with the utmost caution and with respect to national as well as private interests.

Similarly, the Riksdag replied that, although parliament had granted three vast powers, it did not intend to forego the right to criticize whatever measures the government should take.

Other Views Voted.

Premier Carl Ekman made a statement in the lower chamber similar to that of the finance minister, and a communist spokesman echoed Deputy Minister's sentiments. A socialist member argued that the government should exercise the utmost prudence and to maintain full contact with parliament.

The debate in each chamber lasted only a quarter of an hour.

The cabinet met immediately after the measure was adopted and considered a request from the Kreuger & Toll Company for a moratorium on their obligations until March 31. The request was phrased as follows:

"On account of the death of Ivar Kreuger, it is necessary for the directors (of Kreuger & Toll) to make an investigation and to survey the degree of the financial situation and be enabled to do this without disturbance."

Forced Into Auto, Woman Is Beaten

Mrs. Agnes Wellhorn, 20, of East Point, was severely beaten by two white men late Sunday night after they had forced her to enter their car, the young woman told police.

Mrs. Wellhorn said that as she stood in front of the Medical Arts building on Peachtree street, the men approached and dragged her into the car.

Her screams attracted passers by in another car; it was said, who followed the first car and obtained the license number, which was traced by police. Mrs. Wellhorn was thrown from the machine as it reached Peachtree Hills near Peachtree creek and the two men escaped. She had been beaten about the head and face and shoes said she had lost her hat and shoes in the struggle. She was carried to her home.

Young Apache Faces Trial Today for Slaying Co-Ed

GLOBE, Ariz., March 13.—(P)—A 21-year-old White River Apache, will be demanded in court tomorrow by the United States government, for the slaying of Henrietta Schermer, college co-ed.

Counsel for Seymour, a range rider, said the mercy of the federal jury will be asked at the Indian's trial on the ground he was more familiar with the white man's customs and ethics.

The plea at the trial, set for tomorrow, will hinge on the assertion that the red man misunderstood the flirtations of a sophisticated college girl which involved him in a situation from which his primitive mind could find but one escape, his counsel explained.

Mrs. Schermer, whose attainments as a student won her a fellowship in anthropology at Columbia University a year ago, after she had received a degree of bachelor of science from New York University, was killed on the White River Apache reservation last July 18.

The body was found six days later in a ravine near the Fort Apache school, where, witnesses have said, she and Seymour had intended to attend a dance.

She had been on the reservation a month, studying Apache life and customs, living over the protests of Indian which involved him in a situation from which his primitive mind

Misuse of Funds Laid To Roosevelt's Foes

ALBANY, N. Y., March 13.—(P)—Democrats charged tonight that the $25,000 from Governor Roosevelt's budget, which he had set aside for experimental work on spinal meningitis, and used it to finance the legislative investigation of Mr. Roosevelt's administration.

Irwin Steingut, leader of the democratic forces in the assembly, said the transfer had been made in the republican fiscal committee treatment of the budget, the $25,000 being cut out of the budget and later appropriated for the investigation.

Steingut said the investigation was "an attempt to put Governor Roosevelt on the spot."

Key Pictures Bankrupt City If Recall Move Is Victorious

BY ROY ROBERT.

Warning citizens that a minority group which would stoop to fraud and deception to force a recall election, would, if in power, exploit Atlanta government until the city became bankrupt and "a second Chicago," Mayor James L. Key told his Bible class at the Capitol theater Sunday morning that the gravest danger in Atlanta's history now confronts the people.

Mayor Key spoke with reference to the recall election set for Tuesday when voters will decide if the charges of the Greater Atlanta Law Enforcement Club and the Federation of Trades are of sufficient seriousness to warrant a recall of the city's chief executive.

Starting off in a humorous and sarcastic vein, Mayor Key soon adopted a serious note and mien and discussed the issues of the forthcoming election.

"I am not thinking," he said, "from a personal or political viewpoint, but I am trying to warn Atlanta people that the vilest trick ever perpetrated in this city has been started and unless the better element goes to the polls and votes, will succeed."

ENGINEERS TO FORM COUNCIL IN C. OF C.

A meeting of engineers has been called for 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of forming an engineering council through which members can study the problems of their profession jointly.

The meeting is being sponsored by the chamber, and the organization is being directed by a committee headed by S. R. Young and including George B. Black, Paul Seydell, T. C. Law, H. W. Mason, Eugene O'Brien, A. O. Stanford, F. M. Craft, Eugene Wachendorf, McKendree A. Tucker and Frank R. Shaw, secretary of the chamber's industrial bureau, who also is secretary of the committee.

Roy LeCraw, president of the chamber, in announcing plans for the meeting Sunday said that five branches of engineering would be included in the council, civil, electrical, mechanical, chemical and architectural.

Morgan Stephens Conservatory of Music will sponsor the Federation of Music Clubs program over WSB this afternoon at 8 o'clock. Guest artists are Lillian Rogers Gibbreath, Aileen Stephens, John Panter and Helen Stevens.

It was during the broadcast of the New York Philharmonic orchestra program Sunday afternoon that a person called WGST and requested the orchestra to "sing You Never, Miss Your Mother Till She's Gone."

New Buick and $2,500.00 Cash to Be Awarded.

Have you ever tried cashing in on your leisure time? The Constitution is offering you an unusual opportunity to use your spare time intelligently. Something new that will provide pleasant diversion, mental stimulation, and may be the means of your winning $1,000 cash in addition to a new Buick sedan worth $1,250.

The Game of Movie Titles consists of a series of cartoons similar to the one shown at the left. Under each cartoon is given a list of movie titles. Your job will be to select and name the correct title to each of the 30 cartoons. The winners are to be determined by the correctness of the answers submitted to the series.

These 30 cartoons may be secured in one convenient folder simply by filling in the coupon at the right, calling by The Constitution or by telephoning the Movie Title Editor. Act now, and win your share of the $2,500 in cash prizes.

TODAY'S QUESTIONS.

Question: I am not at the present time a subscriber to The Constitution. Can I send in a set of answers and compete for one of the prizes? L. B. Answer: Yes, you do not necessarily have to take the paper or a subscriber in order to become eligible and compete with others.

Question: The cartoons appear to have hidden meanings in the pictures? M. D.

Answer: There has been no intention to have hidden meanings in the cartoons. You should select what you consider the most obvious answer. Remember, there are 30 cartoons, and you should avoid carelessness and speed sufficient time in working the series.

FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR VICTIM OF TRAIN

Funeral services for J. L. Suttles, 74, yard conductor for the Southern railroad, who was instantly killed Saturday when he fell beneath the wheels of a locomotive in the yards, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill, the Rev. I. H. Henderson and the Rev. E. C. Thompson officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Suttles, an uncle of Patrolman Grover C. Fain, who investigated the accident, had been employed by the Southern for more than 47 years. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. C. C. Ashworth, of Rome; two sons, W. W. Suttles, of East St. Louis, Ill., and W. B. Suttles, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; and three sisters.

JOHN L. SCOTT KILLED BY AUTO IN CHARLOTTE

Member of Prominent Georgia Family Lived in Atlanta for Several Years.

John L. Scott, former Atlantan and member of a prominent Georgia family, died Sunday in Charlotte, N. C., of injuries he received Friday night when struck by an automobile while crossing a street intersection. Mr. Scott, proprietor of a feed manufacturing plant in Charlotte, had made his home there for several years. He was 50 years old.

Carl Maigetter, of Charlotte, driver of the car which struck Mr. Scott, was arrested and released under bond. He said Mr. Scott stepped directly into the path of his machine, and that he wrecked it in an effort to avoid hitting him. An inquest will be held today.

Funeral services will be held in Charlotte this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and interment will be there, it was said. Mr. Scott was a native of Conyers, Ga., and lived in Atlanta for several years.

He was connected with many prominent Atlanta and Georgia families, and was a relative of Mrs. John T. Oler, of the Constitution staff; W. L. and O. F. Adair, and George Warren, president of the Warren Reorganizing Company. His uncle, Otis Ball, is president of the Jackson (Ga.) cotton mill.

Surviving Mr. Scott are his wife, and three daughters, of Charlotte, and his mother, Mrs. John D. Scott, of Conyers.

TENNESSEE CHILD NOT YOUNG LINDY

an impenetrable mystery as ever. Morris Rosner, the undercover man, who said yesterday he possessed definite knowledge the baby was safe and would be returned, was absent from his New York apartment, presumably in connection with the "delicate" work he said he was carrying on at that time.

Likewise, there was no word of the activities of Sally Spitalo and Irving Bitz, the underworld intermediaries appointed by the Lindberghs a week ago today.

The police also discarded from the official search Salvatore Tomaselli, who was not further identified, and Dominick Puerto, a former Brooklyn grocer, who lived near the Lindbergh estate.

"His (Puerto's) absence is accounted for," said police, "by the fact that he is employed in Brooklyn and visits with his family over the week-end."

In eliminating "two gangs" from the inquiry, Colonel Schwarzkopf said: "Since the issuance of Bulletin No. 5 (dated 10 p. m. Saturday) four investigators have returned from trips in Brooklyn and north Jersey after completing a check-up on two gangs supposed to be connected with the case. While the information seems reliable, nothing was found to indicate that the men named could in any way have been involved. They have been eliminated."

Meantime, Henry (Red) Johnson, seaman and son of Dr. Johnson, Lindbergh nursemaid, was described by Deputy Police Chief Bess, of Newark, as cleared of participating in the kidnapping. Johnson, who had been questioned since he first was detained at Hartford, Conn., a week ago last Monday, still faces deportation for illegal entry into the country in 1927.

Permitted to talk to reporters for the first time last night at Newark, Johnson made the surprising statement that he believed the kidnapping to be an "inside job." In the same breath, Johnson expressed all members of the Lindbergh household and refused to amplify his expressed opinion.

TENNESSEE OFFICERS TO HOLD INFANT FOR DIRECT WORD

CROSSVILLE, Tenn., March 13.—(AP)—Despite press dispatches from Hopewell, N. J., that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had established definitely that the baby held here is not his son, adjutant General W. Caswell Boyd of the Tennessee National Guard said tonight that he believed the infant should be held until officers receive direct information.

"I am of the opinion that the baby ought to be held until Sheriff Baxter Swicegood gets definite and direct information from Colonel Lindbergh himself or from New Jersey authorities," General Boyd said.

He added that he wanted the four suspects detained also until he can investigate reports they are wanted in Michigan.

Sheriff Swicegood agreed with Boyd. "I can't release prisoners on the strength of newspaper reports," he said. "I'm going to hold these people until I hear from the Lindbergh family or from the police. The officials at Hopewell agreed that just as soon as they saw the photographs they would wire me. I am also expecting a wire from Colonel Lindbergh in answer to my telegram I sent this afternoon."

While some persons expressed the opinion that the peculiarity of the child's ear, noted by Colonel Lindbergh from the photograph, might have resulted from its being frozen, Dr. V. L. Lewis examined the child and said: "There's not a sign of a damage about those ears." He earlier had noted a peculiarity about the ears.

The four suspects were quoted as saying first that the baby was that of Mrs. and Mr. Young, who are a somewhat elderly couple but later that it was the child of their daughter and that they had taken care of it since it was a few days old.

J. C. Beech, operator of a tourist camp at Dean's Station, near Knoxville, reported that the two couples and the baby stopped there Friday and had with them a printed sign bearing the words, "See the kid that resembles the Lindbergh baby. Admission 15 cents."

Beech quoted Young as saying he and his companions were detained in Virginia for 12 hours until they established that the baby was not Lindbergh Jr.

Because of the crowds attracted to Crossville by reports that the Lindbergh baby had been found, Adjutant General W. Caswell Boyd of the Tennessee National Guard dispatched several guardsmen from Cookeville and later motored from Nashville himself to take charge of the situation.

Assistant Chief Joe Williams of the state highway patrol, who was en route to Knoxville, stopped at Crossville and eight patrolmen were ordered to join him there.

Sheriff Swicegood said the baby has a wart on its right thumb and a scar on its right temple that appears to have been caused by a pimple.

Reporters who talked to Mr. Young quoted her as saying the child was the illegitimate offspring of her 19-year-old daughter and was born at Kalamazoo, Mich., November 3, 1930. She said that Dr. S. E. Andrews attended her daughter when the child was born.

Mrs. Young calls the baby "Billy" and said his name was William Robert, but did not give his last name.

Swicegood reported that the four persons and the baby stopped at the boarding house of Bill Lewis at Ozona about 8 o'clock last night and that Richard Day, who operates a store and filling station across the road

Grandchild Is Born To Governor Roosevelt

BOSTON, March 13.—(AP)—A baby girl was born to Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, at the Richardson House of the Boston lying-in hospital early today.

The baby weighed eight pounds and has been named Sarah Delano Roosevelt, after her great-grandmother. Mrs. Roosevelt is the daughter of Dr. Harvey Cushing, of Boston, brain surgeon.

ROOSEVELT FACES MURRAY TUESDAY

BISMARCK, N. D., March 13.—(AP)—The attitude of North Dakota voters toward two democratic presidential candidates—Governors Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, and W. H. Murray, of Oklahoma—will be tested Tuesday in the state's preferential primary.

Roosevelt, who triumphed over Governor Al Smith last week in the New Hampshire primary, has a new opponent in Oklahoma's "Alfalfa Bill" Roosevelt has the endorsement of the North Dakota democratic convention, but both he and Murray have slates of delegates entered in the primary.

The party delegation of 10 may be split between the two men, since the voters can choose any 10 of the 20 names on the ballot, regardless of whether they are supporters of Murray or Roosevelt.

On the republican side, President Hoover is not making a direct bid for presidential "preference" votes, although a slate of 11 delegates is entered for him and he was endorsed by the party's independent-wing convention.

Although they have no pledged delegates, former Senator J. I. France, of Maryland, and "General" Jacob S. Coey, of Ohio, are seeking republican "preference" votes. A slate of anti-Hoover delegates is sponsored by the non-partisan faction.

In North Dakota's primary the voter indicates his choice for president, but the "preference" vote is of no significance, not binding at the national convention.

Administration leaders have ignored the preferential feature and are concentrating on the election of pledged delegates.

Several state issues will be voted on, including constitutional amendments seeking to remove the state capital from Bismarck to Jamestown and to increase the state gasoline tax from three to four cents a gallon.

CURLEY TO HEAD SLATE PLEDGED TO ROOSEVELT

BOSTON, March 13.—(AP)—Mayor James M. Curley, foremost New England supporter of the presidential candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt, today said Roosevelt's Massachusetts friends had decided Curley would head a slate of candidates for delegates pledged to the New York governor.

The announcement, made in a radio address, apparently ended all hope of democratic harmony in Massachusetts and increased the party battle more than a month away.

A slate of candidates, pledged to Alfred E. Smith, was announced last week by Frank J. Donahue, chairman of the state democratic committee. It included the names of Governor Joseph B. Ely, United States Senator David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge and other prominent Massachusetts democrats.

from the Lewis home, became suspicious and called the sheriff. They were brought here about midnight.

Young is 50 years old and Mrs. Young 55. The other couple are about 35.

Sheriff Swicegood late this afternoon wired Colonel Lindbergh a description of the baby.

MARION OFFICERS DETAINED GROUP AND BABY 4 DAYS AGO

MARION, Va., March 13.—(AP)—B. C. Gwyn, commonwealth's attorney for Smith county, today said four persons and a baby giving the same names as those held at Crossville, Tenn., were detained here for four days beginning March 2 but were released when officers were satisfied the child was not the missing Lindbergh baby.

Gwyn said Smyth county officers verified statements by members of the group that they were at Eliston, near Salem, Va., the early part of the night the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped in New Jersey.

The Lindbergh baby is said to have a dimple in its chin, while the infant examined here had no such distinguishing feature, Gwyn said. Gwyn described the infant examined here as 30 1/2 inches in height, weighing 26 1/2 pounds, unable to walk or talk and having light curly hair and blue eyes.

He said the four persons accompanying the child gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. John M. Young and Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mitchell, and told officers he child was Mrs. Young's grandson.

Gwyn said Smyth county officers communicated with New Jersey and Pennsylvania police before the two couples and the baby were allowed to proceed.

The infant examined here, he added, had eight upper and seven lower teeth and was said by Mrs. Young to be 15 months old. Gwyn said the child was normal and appeared to have been given the very best of care.

DEFENSE MEETING TO OPEN TONIGHT

Representatives of Many Patriotic Groups Will Hold 3-Day Session.

A mass meeting of representatives of many Georgia patriotic organizations will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the Henry Grady hotel, as the opening session of a three-day convention of the Woman's Patriotic Conference on National Defense, according to Mrs. Joseph R. Toomey, Georgia president of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Louise W. Williams, national president of the auxiliary, Mrs. D. O. Oliphant, chairman of the national defense committee, Mrs. John Gilmore, national radio chairman, and Mrs. R. W. Waldrop, vice president of the southern division, will be honor guests at the banquet preceding the meeting.

Mrs. Williams will address the assembly tonight on ways and means of furthering peace and discuss various problems of defense which now confront the nation. Other distinguished speakers on the program with Mrs. Williams will be Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., Mayor James L. Key, Major General Edward King, commander of the fourth corps area, and other naval and military officers.

Sessions of the conference will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at 8 o'clock and continue through the afternoon.

John B. Chapple, editor of the Ashland (Wis.) Daily Press, will deliver his famous address "Which Way America," at the closing session Wednesday.

As chairman of the conference, Mrs. Toomey will be assisted by Mrs. Bun Wyllie, state regent of the Daughters of the Revolution, as vice chairman. Mrs. Susie Caldwell will act as secretary and Mrs. Lillian Walstein as treasurer.

Organizations participating in the conference will be: The D. A. R.; The United Society of Colonial Daughters; Daughters of the Founders and Patriots; the American Legion Auxiliary; Service Star Legion; U. D. C.; and others.

Passenger Steamer Sinking; All Saved

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 13.—(AP)—The Canadian National steamship Prince David, out of Boston, with 84 passengers for Bermuda, struck a reef 12 miles off Hamilton today and began sinking. All her passengers and crew were transferred to the Canadian National steamer Lady Somers. All were saved.

The accident was blamed on poor visibility in a blinding rainstorm and occurred just before the Prince David picked up her pilot.

The Prince David was sinking slowly late today with her decks awash, and it was feared she would be a total loss.

MISSISSIPPI SOLONS TO RESUME TAX FIGHT

JACKSON, Miss., March 13.—(AP) Quiet reignited along the legislative front tonight as forces supporting and opposing the administration's 3 per cent sales tax bill completed preparations to resume the budget battle on the floor of the senate.

The issue is not expected to be considered in the upper branch before Tuesday.

The bill, passed by the house late Thursday after having twice been rejected, will be turned over to the finance committee upon reaching the senate Monday afternoon. An early committee report is anticipated by senate leaders.

TALLULAH BANKHEAD DENIES ENGAGEMENT

LOS ANGELES, March 13.—(UP)—"Ridiculous!" said Tallulah Bankhead today when she was questioned about reports she was to marry Joel Macrea, of Hollywood.

"I've only met the man once," she screened as added.

Reports of an impending engagement of Miss Bankhead and Macrea were published today in London.

POLITICAL ASPIRATION DENIED BY PORTES GIL

NEW YORK, March 13.—(AP)—Returning from Europe today aboard the liner Augustus, Emilio Portes Gil, formerly provisional president of Mexico, denied that his re-entry into the politics of Mexico foreshadowed his presidential candidacy in 1934.

"I am returning," he told interviewers through an interpreter, "because the leaders of my party in Tamaulipas (his home state) wish me to make the race for governor. That is all. It has no connection with the presidential election two years hence."

ROBERT S. WILKINSON, NEGRO EDUCATOR, DIES

ORANGEBURG, S. C., March 13.—(AP)—Dr. Robert Shaw Wilkinson, 67, one of the south's most prominent negro educators and president of the State Agricultural and Mechanical College, died here today of pneumonia.

Dr. Wilkinson, who was born in Charleston, was a graduate of the United States Military Academy, Oberlin College and held a Ph. D. degree from Columbia University. Before coming a member of the original faculty here in 1896, he was an instructor in language in the Kentucky State Negro College.

EX-CONVICT CONVICTED IN BERG KIDNAPING

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—(AP)—The second man in the Alexander Berg kidnaping case was convicted today when a circuit court jury returned a verdict of guilty against Edward Barcum, ex-convict, and fixed punishment at 25 years in the penitentiary. The state had asked the death penalty.

Two convictions, one plea of guilty and one mistrial, have resulted since the arrest of five men for the abduction last November of the wealthy St. Louis fur dealer, who was held prisoner four days in a flat before being released after a promise of $50,000 ransom, which was never paid.

3 Rescued From Ship After 49 Days Adrift SINGAPORE, March 13.—(UP)—The rescue of three sailors from the Sumatra City of Acheen after they had survived 49 days adrift on a derelict vessel was reported today by H. M. S. Devonshire when it arrived in Singapore.

The strange story of the sea began when the Devonshire was 150 miles off the coast of Sumatra, where the derelict prow was sighted. Drawing nearer, the crew of the warship saw three men on board.

They proved to be from the City of Acheen at the western tip of Sumatra. They said three other men on the ship had died during the 49 days they had been adrift. The survivors were landed at Acheen.

Church To Present Minstrel

The two principal stars of a church minstrel to be presented by the Young People's Class of St. Luke's Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night, March 19, shown in a characteristic pose. On the left may be seen Russell Pierce and on the right Floyd Wilson. The minstrel is to be presented at the Fulton Club building at 190 Boulevard, S. E., and proceeds will be used for church improvements. The cast of 18 members is under the direction of George Livsey.

Walter S. McKinney Dies in So. Carolina

MACON, Ga., March 14.—(AP)—W. D. Anderson, president of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, and Mrs. Anderson early Monday morning received a long distance telephone message from Charleston, S. C., informing them of the death of Mrs. Anderson's nephew, Walter S. McKinney, 19, a first-year student at The Citadel.

Young McKinney was from Marietta, Ga., a son of Mrs. Walter S. McKinney. His father died about two years ago. In the Marietta high school he was an athlete, playing on the basketball and other teams.

The funeral will be held at the Marietta Methodist church Tuesday morning.

Young McKinney had been ill eight days with pneumonia. His mother was with him at the time of his death and will accompany the body to Marietta.

There will be an escort from The Citadel to accompany the body, it was learned.

Sets of Finger Prints In Nursery Revealed

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 13.—(UP)—Two sets of finger prints were found on the window sill of the Lindbergh nursery on the night of the kidnapping, the United Press was informed tonight by a high official investigating the crime.

One of these sets of finger prints was repeated inside the room, and both sets were those of men.

Refutation of previous stories that no finger prints were found inside the room from which Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was stolen came from a source regarded as authoritative. According to the United Press informant, the finger prints on the window sill pointed in, towards the room.

One footprint also appeared on the carpet.

Reconstructing the kidnapping, this authority said there was no question but that the first kidnaper ascended the ladder and entered the room. The second followed him and received the baby from his hands.

GIRL, 17, IS VICTIM OF HAWAII ATTACK

Alleged Assaulter Is Held
With Two Others After Brutal Crime.

HONOLULU, March 13.—(AP)—A 17-year-old Chinese girl was brutally assaulted last night in Honolulu's third attack upon a woman within two weeks.

Two hours later police arrested Joseph Young, Korean-Hawaiian, whom the city's new chief of police said he would attempt to have hanged.

Badly bruised and showing evidence of having been choked, the girl, Bernice Lum, said she left a private dance shortly before midnight with Gilbert Halm, Chinese, for a walk.

They were sitting on the steps of a near-by residence, the girl related, when Young approached. The girl and her escort said that Young, a huge fellow, told Halm to scam. Halm, a youth of slight stature, departed.

Young, police were told, then choked the girl and attacked her. Neighbors, attracted by her screams, arrived after her assailant had fled. Halm and Edward Lau, Chinese friend of Young's, were also taken in custody.

C. F. Weeber, appointed police chief when the department was reorganized six weeks ago following recent disorders, recalled the indictment and sentence to life imprisonment 10 days ago of John Fernandez, who admitted attacking a Japanese woman.

"The only way to deal with this situation," said Weeber, "is to hang the criminals guilty of assaulting women. I believe in the salutary effect of the noose."

Capital punishment in such cases was provided for in a measure passed by the recent special session of the territorial legislature.

The police chief said that he would ask John C. Kelley, recently appointed public prosecutor, to call a special session of the grand jury for tomorrow.

The assault upon Miss Lum occurred just two weeks after Mrs. Kathleen Hope, wife of a naval enlisted man, was attacked in her home which is in the same neighborhood—near Waikiki beach.

RELIGIOUS RIOTERS QUELLED IN GLASGOW

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 13.—(UP)—Mounted and foot police charged a mob of rioting Catholics and protestants outside the Protestant Forum church today.

They used their batons freely, breaking up the riot and injuring several persons. Two were arrested.

The clash between Catholics and protestants began when about 100 protestants were standing in line awaiting admission to the Forum church. Catholics celebrating the anniversary of Saint Olivie passed by the church.

Filipinos Threaten Boycott on U. S. Goods

MANILA, P. I., March 13.—(AP) A threat of a boycott against "American imperialist products" was cable-d to President Hoover today after a meeting of the Philippine Civic Union, a radical independence organization.

The cablegram demanded "prompt fulfillment of the promise of independence embodied in the Jones law before we take the bitter step of boycotting American imperialist products."

More than a thousand persons heard charges that the Philippine independence mission in Washington, D. C., was betraying independence by negotiating for a long transition period.

SUPPORT OF TAX BILL URGED ON DEMOCRATS

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 13.—(AP)—Urging democrats of the nation to rally to the support of their congressional leaders for speedy enactment of an emergency tax program, former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, tonight issued a statement from his winter home here.

The former democratic presidential nominee said: "The democrats of the country should be giving our leadership in congress evidence of that moral support so well deserved. These are not times for either individual or party indifference. Upon the passage of the tax bill depends the balancing of our federal budget, an emergency measure in behalf of the nation's credit."

"It is needless to discuss now the cause for our financial state. Appropriations and disbursements made with too little regard for the inevitable consequences constitute a debt. The faith of the government is pledged and must be kept. The remedy is severe, but there can be no recovery of public confidence or business without it."

"The sales tax is said to be unpopular. What tax is popular? Some oppose it because it is a levy upon consumption. What, save the income tax, is not? And, unless something is done about business, the income tax will give small relief."

Albany Likely To Be Host To National Amateur in 1933

MORRISON ARRIVES; TORONTO VANGUARD HERE

ALBANY LIKELY TO PLAY HOST TO '33 AMATEUR

Atlanta Interest High as Southern Trials Prepare To Start.

By Ralph McGill.

ALBANY, Ga., March 13.—The Southern Amateur Field Trial Club expects to be host to the National Amateur in 1933, according to information received here tonight as the dog owners gathered for the initial hunt of the southern club.

The National Amateur, which met a few weeks ago in Claremore, Okla., has never been held in Georgia. It is one of the greatest sporting events on the national sports card. Albany offers the greatest bird-dog trial grounds in America, and the effort to obtain the national trials is expected to be a successful one.

Meanwhile the dogs and their owners from four states are gathering here. The entries closed late with indications that about thirty or more dogs would be entered in the all-age and puppy stakes. It will likely be Tuesday afternoon before the meet will be completed.

ON PLANTATION.
The trials will be run on the Pine-land plantation owned by Judge R. W. Bingham, Joe Rosenberg, secretary of the trial, reports that a great crowd is to be present in the gallery when the trials begin early Monday morning.

A barbecue and Brunswick stew is to be supplied by Judge Bingham at noon Monday.

Atlanta interest in the trials runs high as there are some famous dogs here. Dr. George Myhrall, whose setter Woodward's Commander won the all-age stake at the central Alabama field trials here recently at Selma, and whose pointer puppy, Sis, placed in the puppy stake, has both his stars entered.

Woodward's Commander is a white black and tan and 100 per cent Lewisell setter. He is the son of Puritan out of Rosemary Judy. Back of that is the famous Palachio blood. It would not be at all surprising if this dog, Atlanta's own, were to bring back the setter race to its former superiority in the bird dog world. The setter has been in-bred too much. Dr. Myhrall, the setter, is a setter pure so that it will come back. His success in former trials augurs much for the success of his idea.

SIS CALLIE.
The second Atlanta dog, Sis Callie, is a pointer puppy. She is out of Schelling's Pride out of Jake's Stylish Doctor. This brings in the famous blood of Oklahoma City, one of the most famous sires in the game.

Judge Bingham is a clean, high-class sportsman, one of the finest gentlemen in the game. The start Monday morning will be a great one. The course will stretch through the miles of his place and at noon will halt for a barbecue at a negro church built by Judge Bingham and W. C. Potter for the tenants on their places.

And what a barbecue! The menu tonight. It includes barbecued mutton, barbecue lamb, barbecue beef, and there will be pickles, slaw, stuffed eggs, and there will be great quantities of golden Brunswick stew, prepared according to the Georgia formula.

FINE SPORTSMEN.
And what a group of sportsmen are connected with the club which in just a few days has attracted more than 30 of the finest dogs in the South.

There is Judge Bingham, the famous Kentuckian, chairman of the board of directors, and W. C. Potter, president of the Atlanta Trial Club, many of New York and Judge G. C. Hamrick, the income tax man here who manages to be popular despite the fact that he takes in the government taxes. And that means he is quite a man.

Richard Tift, one of Albany's best-known citizens, is president; J. B. Waddell, vice president, and Joe Rosenberg, secretary, are also well known. Bob Woodruff, of Atlanta; R. J. Edgerly, of Albany; Sig. Farakas, Albany; Hamilton, Yancey, Americans, and Bob McNeil, of Arlington, make up the remainder of officials. All are well known. The famous Jake, owned by Bob and Charlie Sealey, of Panama City, Fla., is entered. Jake is one of the best-known dogs. He is the Atlanta dog, Woodward's Commander, is also a favorite.

TWO STAKES.
The two stakes will include one for members only and the other a puppy stake open to all sportsmen. The members' all-age stake will be a shooting dog stake in which the dogs must be owned and handled by the members of the club. Dogs who have previously won open stakes will be barred. The heats will be 30 minutes, and the starting fee will be $2.50. The first brace in the members' all-age will be cast off at 7:30 o'clock, and the starting point will be at the Pine-land plantation bars, on the Hardup road.

The puppy stake will be open to any dog whelped on or after January 1, 1931, regardless of previous wins. The puppy, however, must be handled by an amateur.

Heats will be 20 minutes and the starting fee $2.50. Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners in each event.

Rules and regulations of the Amateur Field Trial Club of America, the national amateur organization, will govern the stakes, as the Southern Amateur Field Trial Club is now affiliated with the national body.

Meanwhile the trials are really amateur. The spirit is purely amateur competition. The dogs, who remind me of the stories of Cromwell's Old Ironsides in their determination to follow just one idea and pay no attention to anything else, are not the least of the attractions.

ALBANY, Ga., March 13.—We rode five hours through the cold keen air on the way to Albany and the southern amateur field trial and heard just one funny story.

And that was at Griffin, where a wag at the filling station gave instruction. "You go until you get arrested," he said, "and then you turn to your left."

And at the New Albany hotel there were the dogs and their owners. Magnificent, shaggy setters with their souls in their eyes and the gallant smooth pointers with their great dignity and intelligence.

When we came into the lobby the dogs walked in with a stately tread and went right to the desk with us and when Woodward's Commander and Sis Callie, a setter and a pointer, walked up to the desk and put their paws on it to look over at the clerk, a gentleman from New York, who was sitting in the lobby, said, "How long are these dogs going to be here? I've traveled a lot and I thought all this thing about the south and its dogs and horses was all bunk. But I'm sold on these dogs. Get me a telegraph blank so I can wire my office I'll be here for several days. And how much do bird dogs cost? I'm in the game."

This field trial is pulling them in. There are dogs here with the blood of Eugene's Ghost in them. And Eugene's Ghost was a famous dog who won down on the broad stretches of the plantation at Grand Junction, Tenn., where the national, most difficult of all tests, is run, and there are other famous blood strains here. There is Pagliacci and Dr. Willing and others whose names have made history in the bird dog game.

THE GREAT COUNTRY.

And this place where the field trial is to be run tomorrow is a great territory. It stretches for miles. There are the 16,000 acres on Judge R. W. Bingham's Pine-land plantation. And there are the lush 12,000 acres in the plantation of W. C. Potter, and next to that are the rich miles of Dr. Stafford McLean's 10,000 acres.

And the story they tell is that in the old days the fierce, cruel Creek Indians made the land. It was their land in the days when they hunted the deer and the bear through these forests and when their fierce war canoes plied the tumbling cold waters of the Flint river.

And the tradition is that when the white man began to put up his log cabins and take more and more land with his ax and his rifle, the Indians had a big meeting. And they made a big medicine. The land was made for the Indians. There was always to be game on it. There was always to be hunting.

And then the long rifles and the grim men in buckskin came with their plows and their log cabins. And the cruel, fighting Creeks were pushed back into reservations. But they say that the spell is still there. The medicine men made strong medicine. And the land is still teeming with game.

Why else would Judge Bingham have bought the wide, rich acres, and why else would some impulse have made him stock the acres with 1,600 pairs of quail, which means that he put 3,200 birds in addition to the native birds? And why else would W. C. Potter have put down 1,000 pair which means 2,000 birds had it not been for the strong medicine which the old, painted Creek Indians made centuries ago? There is game here still. Just as they said.

THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH.

And a few miles away is the spring which old Ponce de Leon and his army of glittering troops sought in the tangled forests of south Georgia.

Now and then they dig up an old piece of Spanish armor, or a dagger, or a rusted casque. But Ponce de Leon never found the spring that is called Radium Springs.

One can go there now and leap into a glittering blue steel pool. And the waters are always the same temperature. They are the same when the violets are blooming on the banks and when the frost is on the dead stems.

And when one leaps in to be pushed upward by the surging flow of the water from beneath, one emerges with the blood singing and the years fading away. The springs of youth are here but the blundering Ponce de Leon and his weary, heavy-armed troops missed them.

It is a great country for sport and they are great people who live here. They are not narrow and selfish people but a grand people who love dogs and the field and who strive to make visitors happy.

And so the field trials are always happy ones here, and I would not be surprised if next year the trials aren't the largest of the year.

THERE IS STILL A MONUMENT TO THE OLD CREEKS AND THEIR CIVILIZATION.

The late H. M. McIntosh, who made the Albany Herald one of Georgia's finest papers, collected the relics of the Creeks. And now that he is gone, his son, H. T. McIntosh, the new editor, keeps them on public display at the Davis Exchange Bank building. He was a pioneer in Georgia journalism was the elder McIntosh. And his son is of the same stuff.

The arrow heads and the pottery and spear heads, made from the superior flints of this section, are perhaps the most beautiful of all Indian arts. There are flints colored like old roses and flints with the color of a summer's dawn and the sun all dazzling gold.

It's a great place for hunters. And I think they will all be happy here.

Eastern Amends Its Rookie Rule

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—The Eastern baseball league reconsidered and amended its recently adopted "rookie rule" at a full league meeting at the Hotel Commodore today.

A month ago the league ruled that the 16 players allowed each club must be rookies who never had played in organized baseball before. Today the rule was amended to provide that only two players must come under that category.

Entries for the first annual Georgia Sunday school basketball tournament, scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. court, Saturday, March 26, will close at 6 o'clock tonight.

All entries must be postmarked not later than that hour and a limit of eight teams has been set for the one day tourney. L. H. Cunningham, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., will be in charge of the entries and will assist in the tourney.

BABE, COLONEL PLAN TO MEET EARLY TODAY

Out of Delayed Conference Salary Understanding Is Expected.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13.—(UP)—The stage was set today for the great Babe Ruth-Colonel Ruppert salary conference, but the show didn't go on because half the cast didn't show up. Babe went over to Belleair for a game of golf with Billy Burke, national open champion. The Yankees' right fielder and Owner Ruppert were expected to hold their delayed conference early tomorrow.

YANKS 11; BRAVES 4.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13.—(UP)—Opening their exhibition series, the New York Yankees swamped the Boston Braves, 11 to 4, out-hitting their National League rivals better than four to one.

All three of the Yank pitchers were effective. Pignas yielding three runs, largely because of his wildness. Although Frankhouse, hurling for Boston during the first five innings, held the Yanks runless, the American leaguers wrecked Brown and Mangum, who succeeded Frankhouse.

ROBINS 5; REDS 3.
TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—(UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 3, in an exhibition game here. Brooklyn won the game by making good use of 10 hits off the pitching of Larry Benton, St. John and Owen Carroll. Miss-play helped each team get one run.

Lefty O'Doul featured Brooklyn's attack with two singles and a double in four times at bat. Clyde Minion doubled and tripled for Cincinnati in three attempts. Hack Wilson's only hit, a fluke double, drove in the deciding run. Joe Morrissey, shortstop, reported to the Reds before the game and signed his contract.

PELS 5; INDIANS 3.
NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians and New Orleans Pelicans braved near-freezing weather today to play the second game of their delayed exhibition series. The game was called at the close of the ninth with the score tied at 5-5.

GIANTS 7; CUBS 3.
LOS ANGELES, March 13.—(UP)—Scoring six runs in the seventh inning, the New York Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs, 7 to 3, in an exhibition game today. A crowd of 10,000 watched the contest.

The victory gave the Giants a one-game lead in the three exhibition affairs that were played over the weekend. Three more games will complete the present series.

PIRATES 3-1; OAKLAND 1-5.
OAKLAND, Cal., March 13.—(UP)—Pittsburgh and Oakland baseball teams split a double-header here today. The Pirates won the first game, 3 to 1, after the Pirates had taken the morning game, 3 to 1.

FIRST GAME.
Pittsburgh 200-5 8 1
Oakland 100-6 0 1 1 1
Harris, and Pines, Walsh, Sanders and Reed, Stahldt.

SECOND GAME.
Pittsburgh 100-10 1 1 0
Oakland 100-0 0 2 3 12 3
Spencer, and Graves, Thomas, Kahl and Koshlitz.

TIGERS 4; SEALS 1.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 13.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers, of the American league, defeated the Pacific Coast Seals, of the Pacific Coast league, 4 to 1, in an exhibition game here today.

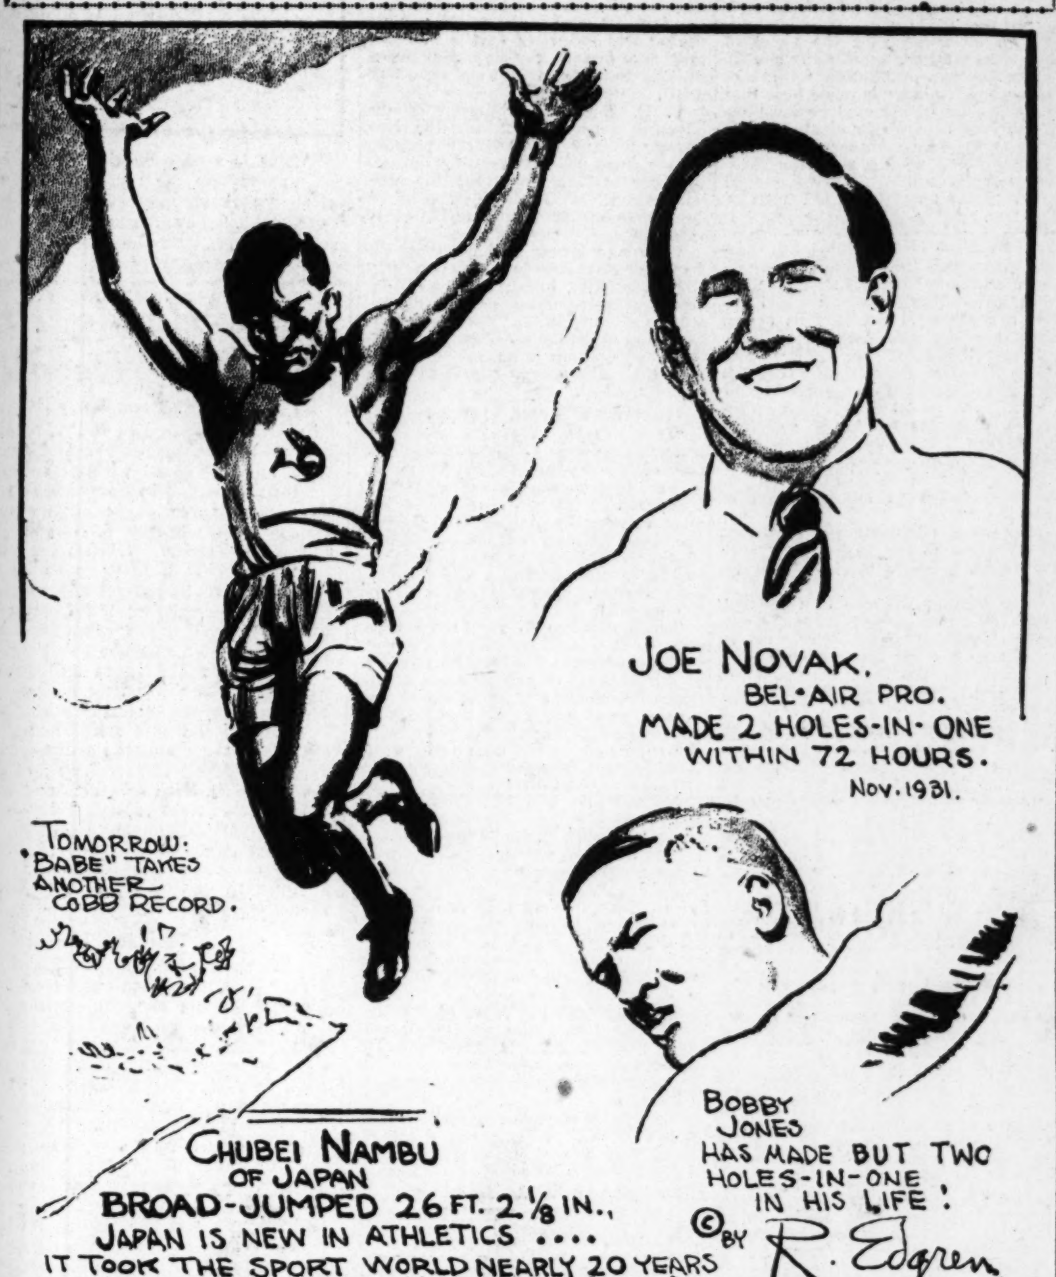

Detroit scored in the first, hereafter three hits off McDougall. The Seals tied the score in the seventh, Keesey singling to bring Garibaldi in from second.

Alexander's double in the eighth scored two men to put the Tigers in the lead again and they added another in the ninth. A Seal rally in the ninth was checked by a double play.

Detroit (AL) 100-0 0 2 4 9 1
San Francisco (PC) 000-100-1 6 0
Wyatt, Koenig and Sance, Hayward; McDougall, Rebin and Ward.

MAIER, NICHOLS IN TITLE BOUT

To Fight for Light-Heavy Recognition at Chicago Friday.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—Promoters in Chicago, Boston and New York come to the rescue of a somewhat sparse national boxing program this week.

At Chicago's stadium on Friday night, Dave Maier, of Milwaukee, and George Nichols, of Buffalo, a pair of southpaws, will fight 10 rounds for National Boxing Association recognition as light-heavyweight champions.

Boston offers two heavyweight shows. The arena comes through on Monday with a 10-rounder between Arthur DeRube, of New York, and Jack Dorval, of Boston. The Boston Garden's Friday night show is stopped by a 10-round duel between Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, and Jack McCarthy, of Boston. On this latter card Jack Sharkey will box two-round exhibitions against Pedro Lopez and Eddie Malcom.

Sammy Fuller, the busy Boston lightweight, who recently gave Ray Miller a trouncing here, returns to Madison Square Garden on Friday night to face the hard-punching Cleveland, Billy Wallace.

Bama Basketeers Turn To Baseball

UNIVERSITY, Ala., March 13.—(P)—With the close of the basketball season at Alabama, several hoopers have transferred their activities to the diamond. Aiken is a leading candidate for first base. Laney is a strong contender for second or short. Roy Combs is looking good at first, and Bauman is showing lots of hurling ability.

League To Meet For Organization
TOLEDO, Ohio, March 13.—(P)—Influenced today stopped Jack Dempsey's comeback jaunt toward the heavyweight throne he won here in 1919 from Jess Willard.

Dempsey canceled two bouts at Youngstown scheduled for tomorrow night, but hopes to leave Toledo for Toledo, W. Va., tomorrow for a bout there Wednesday night.

If his condition does not improve overnight he will cancel the Clarkburg fight and one scheduled for Huntington, W. Va., Friday night.

With two of the five leagues that will be sponsored by the Y. Church A. A. the coming season practically completed and the other three meeting but to qualify. Handicaps will apply in all of the tournaments except the annual club championship, which will be from scratch and each major tournament will consist of 16 players in each flight.

Defending champions are H. R. Wager, club champion; J. H. Woody, Nat. Kaiser champion, and O. C. Blackmon, President's Cup champion. April 2—Ball Sweepstakes.

April 8—Qualifying series handicap match play. April 16—Match play against par. April 25—Women's Club championship qualifying.

April 30—Ball Sweepstakes. May 15—Qualifying President's Cup. May 28—Match play against par. June 1—Qualifying junior championship. June 15—Qualifying Father-and-Son tourney. June 15-16—Qualifying Nat. Kaiser Memorial.

July 4—Flag tournament. July 16—Ball Sweepstakes. August 20-21—Qualifying Club championship.

Plans for four major and several minor tournaments to be sponsored by the Atlanta Golf Association during the spring and summer months will be discussed and perfected at a meeting of the association at 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Piedmont park in the afternoon in the office of Robert H. Martin, president, at the Martin Cadillac Company, 830 West Peachtree street.

An application for membership of the Piedmont Park Golf Association will be filed through their president, Howard Glenn, the association having voted favorably to join the Atlanta association at a recent meeting.

Boys' High Ends Work For Tuesday's Game
Boys' High football candidates will hold a long signal drill this afternoon in preparation for a game at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Piedmont park in the close of the spring practices. All the candidates for the 1932 team will compose a team to meet the veterans of the 1931 eleven, and it will be a regular four-quarter affair.

The new rules will be enforced throughout the game and it will mark the first time that the new rules have been applied in a regulation game in Atlanta. There will be no admission charge.

CITY'S BASEBALL COLONY EXPANDS; LEAFS TO WORK

Daly Welcomes 14 Internationals Here; Share Field With Crackers.

By Jimmy Jones.

There were numerous athletic-looking men seen jugging their satchels out of the Terminal station yesterday and 14 of them were baseball players for the Toronto Internationals, who today pitch their spring training camp at Ponce de Leon park.

Only one Atlanta Cracker was seen lugging a satchel and that was John Dewey (Jug-handle) Morrison, the pitcher, who Saturday night was listed as one of the only two Crackers left to report.

Morrison, who will endeavor to demonstrate before Professor David Barron that his curve ball can still inscribe arcs and semi-circles about the corners of the plate, arrived from Owensboro, Ky., and will put on a uniform with the rest of the Crackers today.

IN GOOD SHAPE.
A glimpse of Johnny revealed that the old boy is in very good condition and very eager indeed to do a comeback. He was kept busy giving the squad. It hasn't been so long since that veteran did some great relief work with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1929, when that outfit was floundering around and the only pitcher on the club who could get anybody out was Johnny (Jug-handle) Morrison.

Johnny Morrison was positively the only Brooklyn pitcher who could step in and stop the Giants when they were putting on a rally. He had a great season for the Yankees in 1928, when he pitched for the Yankees.

Last summer with the Crackers, Morrison was in and out, like his curve ball. But with the right kind of handling, Coach Rube Marquard believes he will win a lot of ball games for the Crackers this year.

Anybody who has a fine spirit and is itching for another chance. Meanwhile yesterday, Manager Tom Daly, of the Toronto Maple Leafs, was kept busy giving the glad hand to his incoming hirelings. During the day, Tom welcomed the following players to Toronto headquarters at the Grand Terrace hotel:

ARRIVALS.
Paul Failing, Guy Cantrell, Art Mills, Harry Anberbach, Art Smith and Stan Stanek, pitchers; Olt, Rex, Harry Davis, Ed Rogell, Ralph Michaels and Hubby Walker infielders; Pete Stack and Bob Smith, catchers; Tom Hughes, outfielder.

Manager Daly, who is a catcher, and McDougall, outfielder, already were here and Arthur McHenry, outfielder, and Doljack, outfielder, also were expected hourly. Young Liebhardt's day was a busy one in his day. The Toronto squad will run close to 30 when newspapermen and younger players are supplemented.

Starting today, the Leafs will share Ponce de Leon park with the Crackers. Daly will have his squad out at 9:30 this morning, working out until 12:30. Then the first squad of Crackers will take the field, followed by another who will extend the practice period to 3 p. m.

Johnny Chapman, the tardy third baseman, had not reached the city as this was written, but they were saying a room for him at the Hotel Imperial, headquarters of the Crackers. Johnny heard that he would arrive yesterday, but was expected during the night.

Despite cold weather, the Crackers wound up last week with a corking good outing, and the Toronto squad is well pleased with the showing some of the new players are making.

Bobby (Rabbit) Goff, the pinstriped pitcher, has been making a brand of defensive play about his position that may make him a worthy rival of Shine Cortazzo. Goff, who played with Jim Mooney under Hans Lobert at Bridgeport, Conn., last year, is the flashiest of fielders and if he can hit anywhere near what he batted in the Eastern—a tough pitcher's league by the way—he may be just what the doctor ordered for the Cracker infield.

HAL LIKE HAL.
Hal Bejin was coming landing like a Hal Chase. His only doubt lies in his hitting but it is unfair to judge Bejin on this score until he has had a chance in the exhibition games. This goes for "I" the new players for that matter, as there is some difference anyway in hitting at batting practice pitching and in the heat of the game.

Danny Lynch, a boy whose hitting and fielding are so good a specimen of quality, has looked very good at second base and Mr. Jack Sheehan, who knows the knack of playing second base forward and backward, avows that Lynch can be developed there. Eddie Roetz, another candidate, is a good hitter and may come around.

This is still uncertain, as Mr. Chapman has yet to be seen there. But Amos Martin and Benny Mock are not doing a bad job at the matter.

If some of the other infielders turn out to be better hitters than expected, the odds will be very high in favor of Hal Bejin being retained to play first. The boy is a wow of a fielder and this offers a considerable number of points on his batting average.

Ralph McGill Covers Albany Field Trials

Readers of The Constitution and lovers of bird dogs in general will receive accurate and first-hand accounts of the first annual southern amateur field trials getting under way at Albany today.

Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, is already on the scene and will furnish complete happenings to this paper in his own vivid descriptive style. McGill not only is one of the south's outstanding sports writers, but probably knows more about dogs than any other newspaperman in Dixie.

The Constitution is the only Atlanta newspaper with a staff writer covering the field trials. Watch the sports pages for results.

McGill's colorful and vivid stories will be supplemented by pertinent comment in his column, Break of the Day.

Tourney Entries To Close Tonight

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—The Eastern baseball league reconsidered and amended its recently adopted "rookie rule" at a full league meeting at the Hotel Commodore today.

A month ago the league ruled that the 16 players allowed each club must be rookies who never had played in organized baseball before. Today the rule was amended to provide that only two players must come under that category.

Entries for the first annual Georgia Sunday school basketball tournament, scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. court, Saturday, March 26, will close at 6 o'clock tonight.

All entries must be postmarked not later than that hour and a limit of eight teams has been set for the one day tourney. L. H. Cunningham, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., will be in charge of the entries and will assist in the tourney.

Stribling Is Offered Loughran Bout

LUMPKIN HOPES TO PIN KATAN HERE TUESDAY

Then He'd Ask for Somebody Tougher; "Lays Off" Managers.

Roy (Father) Lumpkin, who meets John Katan here Tuesday night in the semi-final of the Duesek-Znoski match, is being sought after by several of the better-known managers in the wrestling game because of his sensational showing in Atlanta.

Lumpkin, however, remains on his own. He learned something about managers in the prize ring game which made him a bit fearful about them. "The prize ring managers jockeyed the big football player into some tough fights and when Lumpkin had taken the beatings he found the managers had taken the money."

"I guess I'll manage myself for a while, anyhow," said Lumpkin. "I like wrestling and am glad that I came to Atlanta where Henry Weber is promoting. I like the way in which he puts on matches. I've been in other cities where the game goes well and Weber is the best promoter I've seen."

Lumpkin is one of the most picturesque men in athletics. He was a member of the world's championship Georgia Tech football team in 1928. He has fought in the ring and is still one of the greatest of the pro football players. The Portsmouth (Ohio) team is built around Lumpkin.

Lumpkin seems naturally adapted to wrestling. "I like it," he said. "It's a much better game than boxing. And as for the charges people make against wrestling—well, I was in the boxing game and I know them both. The wrestling game is on a higher level."

"I hope I can beat Katan. From what I hear he is plenty tough. But I am sure I can make him step. And if I pin him I'll ask for somebody tougher."

The Znoski-Duesek match is expected to be one of the best ones in months. Duesek is one of the real stars of the game. He is a protégé of Charley Rentrop and uses Rentrop's cradle-split hold better than any man in the game.

Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters and at Davidson-Paxon's. Ladies are admitted to any seat in the auditorium for 75 cents.

Smokies Sign Veteran Taylor

KNOXVILLE, March 13.—Tommy Taylor, veteran of Southern league baseball wars, drifted into Knoxville today and asked for "just one more chance." His wish was granted and his name now adorns a Smoky contract.

He was with Memphis last season. Provided Taylor can show any of his old-time form, he will be used as a utility performer. He can play both the outfield and infield.

Southwest Meet Is Slated Tonight

A regular meeting of the Southwest Sunday School Athletic Association will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Cascade Baptist church. Plans for the summer baseball season will be discussed.

Nicklin Passes In Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 13.—(P)—Strang Nicklin, former owner of the Chattanooga baseball club and widely known in sporting circles, died at a hospital here at midnight.

Primo Slapped, 'Just for Fun'

LONDON, March 13.—(P)—Primo Carnera, huge Italian heavyweight, was leaving Blackfriars ring where he is training today, when a man stepped out from the crowd and slapped him on the cheek with open hand.

"What's that for?" growled the big Italian.

"Just for fun," his assailant answered and ran before Carnera could retaliate or a policeman arrest him.

BRADY COWELL HAS PROSPECTS OF BEST TEAM

Florida Nine Has Veteran Players for Every Position.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 13.—"Brady" Cowell, who has turned out some exceptional freshman football teams, who for the past two years has upset an abundant amount of "dope" in the Southern conference basketball tournament, is now busy seeking to fashion a formidable University of Florida baseball contingent for the Dixie league campaign.

GOOD INFIELD. In addition to Jack Mizelle, Johnny Guluzian, Q. I. Roberts and Bob Pittman, an infield combination that packs a wealth of class, the "Gator" inner positions have been materially strengthened by the stepping up to varsity circles of Bob Treadgold, Shaw Buck and Eddie Moore.

Treadgold is giving Mizelle plenty of competition at first base. Buck, who can play at practically any position on the ball club, and play exceedingly well, is Guluzian's present second-base rival. At shortstop, Moore is making terra firma warm for Roberts. Boulet, at third, is Pittman's principal understudy, but the battle at the hot corner is not as intense as at the other three infield positions.

Pittman, given honorable mention on College Humor "All-American" last year, is a polished fielder, and a great batsman. Roberts was viewed with extreme satisfaction last summer by major league scouts, and but for a desire to complete his college career, would have gone into professional ball. Mizelle was one of the leading batsmen in the Dixie league last year, and a brilliant fielding first baseman. Guluzian's all-around play at second ranked him among the outstanding in the circuit.

STRONG OUTFIELD. In the outfield, Ed Sauls and Charlie Clark, with experience last year, remain. Bill Bradley, Spurgeon Cherry, Jimmy Murphy, Bill Rentz, Frank Hancock, Albert Bassett and M. A. York appear to be pasture-roamers who must be reckoned with before a final estimate is made.

Five catchers are in camp, Captain Vernon Clark, Griggs, VanLandingham, Spiers and Schirard, but the first three seem to have the edge.

Bena Clemmons, Louis Tofaletti and Al Rogers, veteran hurlers of last year, and above the average, will have Bill Ferrazzi to add strength to the pitching corps this spring. Half a dozen others may help the situation.

Bill Lipsitz, Jerry Reynolds, Jack Bostwick, Charlie Cox, Ross Johnson and Bill Culbreath.

Cain's Kicking Is Big Aid To 'Bama

UNIVERSITY, Ala., March 13.—John Cain's punting, which was a great help to Alabama last season on the grid, is expected to be even more helpful next fall, due to the new rule regarding the kick-off.

Cain, recognized as one of the outstanding punters of the nation, has been giving his team a great advantage on the kick-off this spring in practice games.

Johnny punts them long and high, thus giving his mates ample time to get down under the ball and nail the runner before he can make much headway. This should give the Tide an advantage next fall when they face teams with less able punters.

age. He will convert many a bad throw or vicious grounder into a put-out.

SI Rosenthal doesn't look so bad, either.

COMPETITION. The pitching staff also will see some fierce competition now. With Morrison being brought in, for there is hardly room for more than five Class A twirlers.

The catching staff sees Johnny O'Connell as the first-string maskman with Butler, Baxter Williams and Farmer competing for the B job. Williams has the most experience in the team, having served a year with the Crackers already. Only time will tell which of the trio will win out.

Barrow hopes to get in a practice game today or tomorrow if the weather is right. He hopes to play Tech Wednesday or Thursday. Cartersville, Ga., is down for a game Friday and Toronto Saturday.

PROMOTER SAYS FIGHT CERTAIN TO DRAW CROWD

W. L. To Talk With Pa Today; Latter Plans European Trip.

By Jimmy Jones.

"A Man Must Fight," so Mr. Tunney tells us, and that's the way Young Bill Stribling feels about it.

Visiting in Atlanta last night, Stribling revealed the information that he was returning to the ring very soon and that his first offer in this country had come from a Philadelphia promoter, offering him a bout with Tommy Loughran there the second week in April.

GETS WIRE. Stribling exhibited a telegram from Pa. Stribling, who is in Miami, informing him of the offer just received. Pa. asked him to get in touch with him immediately. Stribling promised to reply favorably to day.

The Philadelphia promoter believes the fight would draw exceptionally well, as Stribling has not fought Loughran since 1927 and Tommy is a Philadelphia boy.

The bout, should it materialize, would be in the same way a comeback for both fighters. Loughran from a knockout at the hands of young Steve Hanes and Stribling from successive defeats by Max Schmeling and Ernie Schacht.

"I've fought Loughran three times and don't mind fighting him again, but I will talk it over with Pa before accepting," Stribling said.

TO MEET PRIMO. The Georgia heavyweight also stated that his European trip, climaxed by a fight with Primo Carnera in London on Derby eve, May 30, very likely would materialize and that Pa was due to get a telegram from Jeff Dickson Saturday, conveying further details.

Stribling appeared to have recovered completely from his defeat by Schacht and said he was feeling very good. He believes he can get in shape quickly for the bout if it goes through.

He expects to communicate with Pa Stribling immediately about the Loughran and Carnera fights.

Schmeling Plans Exhibition Tour.

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—Max Schmeling will make an exhibition tour of cities in preparation for his forthcoming heavyweight championship fight with Jack Sharkey.

Joe Jacobs, the champion's manager, announced tonight that Schmeling would arrive here about March 31 and start his exhibition tour at Richmond, Va., April 11.

Other stops on the tour will include: April 12, Alexandria, Va.; 13, Norfolk, Va.; 14, Newport News.

LADY BROADCAST.

HAVANA, March 13.—(P)—The seventeenth winter meeting of the Havana-American Jockey Club came to an end today with the running of a seven-race card featured by the $10,000 added Cuban Grand National. Before the biggest crowd of the 80-day meeting, Lady Broadcast, Herbert M. Woolf's six-year-old daughter of Messenger-Conscious, ran to any easy victory in the feature race. Borne up from the Denmark stable, was second and F. E. Carr's Kincaid was third.

Fire Insurance FACTS

"Hotter'n Blazes"

BY WOOD BURNS.

Ed said business was slipping a bit—that is, things wasn't quite up to the boom days of the spring of '29. He'd talked this to a few of the old birds he considered had made a success in business and asked their advice.

Some of the boys suggested that Ed "cut down on expenses"—to some extent that was a good suggestion, as most ever business has some unnecessary expenses—Well, Ed started "cuttin'" and then he found himself in the position of the young man who was called on to conduct prayer meeting one night. He got the meeting started but didn't know where to stop.

Next thing Ed knew he'd got into fire insurance with his "cuttin'" and right there was where over-anxiety to "reduce expenses" cost Ed a pretty penny. He chopped his fire insurance in half—saying what he thought was a few hundred dollars a year—which would've been O. K. barring all "accidents."

But—it turned out that the elevator wiring wasn't perfect—and that after everybody'd gone home one night from the store, fire broke out and that couldn't be stopped until $22,700.00 had been done.

Don't matter how much you are tempted to drop any part of your fire insurance in order to save a few pennies—remember, one good fire is enough to cost you thousands of dollars where there's no insurance—or where you are inadequately insured.

And don't forget: "VALUE IN INSURANCE LIES IN THE INTEGRITY AND KNOWLEDGE OF YOUR AGENT."

DR. STAFFORD M'LEAN PASSES IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—Dr. Stafford M'Lean, clinical professor of children's diseases at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home, 17 East 11st street, today. He was 46.

Members of the household found his body in bed after he had failed to appear for breakfast.

Dr. M'Lean was influential in the development of the babies' hospital at the medical center. He was born at Newburgh, N. Y.

During the World War he served as captain and was stationed at Camp Jackson, S. C., where he was chief of the medical staff of the base hospital. Prior to that he had served at Camp Sevier at Spartanburg, S. C.

He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Cutting M'Lean; five brothers, Charles I. M'Lean, of Houston, Texas; Major Henry C. M'Lean, U. S. A., and Major Roscoe M'Lean, U. S. A., retired, both of Texas; and a sister, Mrs. John Maxwell Lummis, Tuxedo Park.

MRS. B. M. RANDAU. LOS ANGELES, March 13.—(UP)—A sudden heart attack which was believed to have been induced by a long period of illness, today caused the death of Mrs. B. M. Randau, mother of Clem J. Randau, general business manager of the United Press Association.

JAMES K. POLK WELLS. MURRAY, Ky., March 13.—(P)—James K. Polk Wells, 80, father of President Rutherford B. Wells, of Murray State College, died at his home of his son-in-law, A. B. Lassiter, today. He had been in declining health after a stroke of paralysis.

DR. L. M. ROBINSON. TAMPA, Fla., March 13.—(P)—Dr. Lucien Moore Robinson, 74, prominent Episcopal clergyman of Philadelphia, Pa., died suddenly here today while witnessing a baseball game between the Brooklyn and Cincinnati teams. He fainted in the grand stands and died before he could be sent to a hospital.

COLMAN AND HAYES STAR IN ARROWSMITH

"Arrowsmith," taken from the Nobel prize novel by Sinclair Lewis and placed on the screen by William C. Cagney, is the star of the week at the Capitol. It is a story of a scientist who turns to research. He is backed up by Helen Hayes, who plays her part well, despite the fact that she has an utterly impossible character to portray.

The picture starts well enough and has great dramatic appeal throughout. It has been praised by most critics as an excellent film, and it undoubtedly is. There is but one thing that seems to strike a discordant note in the symphony. We could be spared the majority of the death and suffering scenes of a bubonic plague in the West Indies, and seeing the young physician's wife die with the plague. This part of the picture has a nightmarish effect and moves too slowly. As for the rest of the picture and the lesson of self-sacrifice it teaches, nothing too good can be said of it.

The stage show this week is the 1932 vaudeville revue of Harry Delmar and his 1931 troupe, "The Lost Squadron." Not only are there pretty girls who can both sing and dance, but there are other dancers, a comic player who is just naturally good. A nice young woman with plenty of pep sang several hot numbers which took down the house.

With all the emotional power she is able to summon, Miss Del Rio pleads with Carrillo for her lover's life. The villain grants her request and lets both escape in his car. At which he says, "What a man I am!" marveling at his own greatness and benevolence.

A Ned Keady comedy, an animated cartoon comedy, and a newsworthy comedy with Graham McNamee completes a most pleasing bill, one highly advisable to see.

HONORS ARE DIVIDED IN FILM AT RIALTO

Dolores Del Rio, billed as the star of "The Girl of the Rio," playing this week at the Rialto theater, should look to her laurels as a star when she plays in the same picture with Leo Carrillo, for this actor is a star himself, and true to his usual role as villain, is at all times likely to steal the coveted wreath, no matter whose name tops his own.

And all this without detracting from the glory that is Miss Del Rio's. Her work is excellent, as it has been these many years. Carrillo, comparatively new to the screen, (in fact, a mere babe beside the star of "Ramona," "What Price Glory," et cetera) is a master of the comic, and in every role extracts all possible laughs. His humor lies not in "wisecracks," but in the drollness with which he utters his lines.

"Girl of the Rio" is already widely known. The story first appeared as a magazine serial by Gerald Beaumont, then as a stage play by Willard Mack, entitled "The Dove." Norma Thaidigge appeared in a silent film version of the same some years ago. In "The Girl of the Rio," a story of border-town gambling and love, Miss Del Rio is a colorful entertainer, loved by Norman Foster and desired by Leo Carrillo. A frame-up follows, and Foster is to be shot by Carrillo's men.

With all the emotional power she is able to summon, Miss Del Rio pleads with Carrillo for her lover's life. The villain grants her request and lets both escape in his car. At which he says, "What a man I am!" marveling at his own greatness and benevolence.

BARRYMORE BROTHERS IN FINE FILM AT FOX

To find superlatives with which to describe adequately the magnificent acting of both Barrymore brothers in the picture, "Arsene Lupin," now showing at Roy Youngblood's Palace of Pleasure, the Fox theater, is quite as difficult as trying to describe the best caviar in Russia; the worst virtuous angel in heaven, John, as a suave criminal, and Lionel, as a detective, fairly try to outdo each other, and both give inimitable histrionic performances, with Lionel receiving the laurel wreath of victory, in this reviewer's opinion.

The story reaches a climax when Lionel finally forces John to admit his identity in order to protect a girl, played by Karen Morley, with whom John has fallen in love. John has succeeded in stealing the famous painting, "Mona Lisa," and he bargains with Lionel for the freedom of his henchmen who also have been captured by Lionel. Then comes the ironic attempt of John as the leading "gangster" of the Paris underworld endeavoring to force his freedom from the law by holding the detective's daughter as hostage. Al Capone could have done no better.

Al Evans holds the audience in the palm of his hand with his splendid playing of the organ and his personal charm. The man does not come in for enough praise, in this reviewer's opinion. And he has promised to play "Thapsody in Blue" in the near future, which, if he wasn't "spoofing" me, will add to his following.

The stage show is worth the price of admission. Ben Bard, husband of Ruth Roland, movie star, handles the master of ceremony job in pleasant fashion. Other short features complete the program, which should not be missed by theater-goers.

ANTI-HOARDING HEADS TO GATHER IN MACON

Atlanta leaders of the Citizens' Reconstruction Organization will go to Macon Tuesday to attend a statewide meeting of the group, seeking to rout depression and unemployment by putting idle dollars to work.

The local delegation to the Macon meeting will be headed by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., Preston S. Arkwright, chairman of the Georgia division of the organization, and E. R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, who is assisting Mr. Arkwright in directing the Georgia campaign.

Details of the Macon meeting are being cared for by W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, who is the chairman of the organization's unit in that city. Information from Macon Sunday night was that a number of prominent south Georgians would be in attendance at the meeting Tuesday.

"The campaign, which is only a few days old, already has shown signs of success," Mr. Arkwright said Sunday night. "At our meeting Tuesday we will lay plans for a statewide general movement which will follow up the advantage our early efforts have opened up for us."

CHAPTER XIX.

Lorne, a Lorne transformed since the morning, went downstairs slowly. Talk of queens! There were two queens in that living room when Lorne Carlton made her entrance, and Dolores Crownshield stood up to meet her.

"How do you do?" asked the moving picture actress of the duchess. "I read in the paper," she repeated her late speech to Dick Farrow, "that you had come to Los Angeles. Nice of you to call and see me."

Dolores who in black and white. She was as spectacular as ever and slightly more mature. Artificial, too; brittle, somehow!

"Lorne!" the duchess exclaimed. "I really did come meaning to be nice. Don't put on airs with me, dear. I always admired you so much, from first to last."

"And I you," replied Lorne. "Can you stay to tea or have you come only to say 'how do you do and goodbye'?"

"I'd love to stay to tea," the duchess said. "I've got such a lot I want to talk about."

Lorne rang, ordered tea, and asked the duchess if she would like to see the garden. The duchess wouldn't, thanks.

"I've journeyed all the way from England with just one object: to see you," she added, piling charm on charm as she spoke, in the way she had with men.

"That's interesting," said Lorne. "Tea'll be here in a few minutes. Of course, it's something about Dick you want to say."

Dolores looked slightly senile. "Yes, it's about Dick, I admit," she said. "What about him?" challenged Lorne. "He's no business of mine, now. He's yours."

"No, indeed, that's where you're mistaken, my dear. He's yours," said Dolores. "He never really got over loving you. The boy is breaking his heart for you now."

"Rather late in the day for him to do that! Well, now, I suppose, you want to get rid of Dick, and you must have a pretty strong reason for doing that or you wouldn't bother."

"I happen to know something about your divorce from the duke that I didn't know when I was in England. I got it out of Dick's parents when they were here, after I came home."

"Dick's parents?" cried Dolores. "But they were divorced from you and married to me!"

"I grant you that," Lorne agreed. "but they were a tiny bit sorry for the deserted one. They wanted to console me, that I complained. But they pondered to the cat in me by telling the true story. You hadn't been married to the duke long when King Loris of Dalmatia turned up in England—the 'loveliest royal bachelor,' he was called, looking for a wife. He saw you, fell head over heels in love and hurried away to try and forget. But you didn't see why being a married woman need interfere when royal love was in question. And you were semi-royal yourself, so birth was no obstacle. You had a heart to heart talk with the duke and, as in those days he couldn't refuse you anything, he didn't refuse you a divorce. The only trouble was, by the time he'd given you cause and the whole business had dragged along through the law courts, King Loris had been persuaded to marry the Danish Princess Brunhilda. That tale shows me your line—your method, you know! You wouldn't have wanted to be off with the duke if you hadn't had something better up your sleeve. The same now. Whom have you decided to marry if you can whistle Dick down the wind?"

"You are positively brutal—coarse!" gasped the duchess.

"Well, I'm not a lady," Lorne explained. "Not a lady in the sense you are. I don't have to pretend. Look here, duchess, if you'll be frank"

"Yes, yes, if you will have it so, that's it!" the duchess exclaimed impatiently. "Tom Dick and Harry are loved him at heart, but that Dick has betrayed me for you, and I can easily get a divorce." Dolores urged breathlessly.

"As cat to cat. That's more like it," said Lorne. "What you mean is, you've followed the duke, knowing him well enough to know that he'd strike while the iron's hot—"

Mardi Gras Festival and Debate Center Interest at Agnes Scott

Mardi Gras, Agnes Scott's annual festival sponsored by the senior class, was held Saturday evening in the Bucher Scott gymnasium, with Miss Jule Bethea presiding over the celebration as king of Mardi Gras. The king was attended by Miss Martha Williamson, Miss Alberta Palmour, Miss Rosalie Ritchie and Miss Page Ackerman. Gay decorations and elaborate floats entered by the classes and campus organizations gave brilliancy and festivity to the occasion.

Miss Anne Hopkins and Miss Elizabeth Lightcap, representing Agnes Scott in the annual debate with representatives from "Goucher" College, were given the decision by the judges, who were: Kendall Weisger, Arthur F. Raper and Mrs. Augustine Sams. Miss Hopkins and Miss Lightcap upheld the affirmative of "Resolved, that capitalism as a system of economic organization is unsound in principle." Against Miss Thelma Tharp and Miss Donna Price, of Goucher, Miss Augusta Dunbar, former member of Pi Alpha Phi, Agnes Scott debating society, presided over the debate.

Miss Florence Kleybeck, president of the Agnes Scott International Relations Club, was elected corresponding secretary of International Relations Clubs, which met February 24-27 at Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. Other members of the Agnes Scott delegation were Miss Florence Smith, Miss Virginia Allen and Miss Louise Wise. The conference was held under the auspices of the Car-

Parker, William Gray Obear Jr., Raymond Whitfield, Marvin Hill Cox, Lieutenant William C. Gailey and Lieutenant Charles F. Train.

A bridge tournament is planned under the direction of Mrs. S. Gordon Greene, conducted for those not wishing to dance, at the conclusion of which prizes will be awarded. An elaborate program has been planned for the intermission, the artists to include Madam Elvira Rose, of Atlanta; George B. Chapman, of Boston, who, by special permission, will impersonate Sir Harry Lauder; the Ryan twins, Miss Helen McHale, Miss Lee and Cody O'Neill, of the Phil Hayden studio; Miss Betty Thompson, of the Army War College, and Miss Mildred Leon, of Washington.

For Miss Yeagan. Douglas Parker entertained at a birthday dinner recently at his home in East Point, honoring Miss Frances Yeagan. The home was decorated with bowls and vases of spring flowers, and the table was centered with a beautifully embossed birthday cake. Covers were placed for the honor guest, Miss Yeagan, Miss Marian Burts, Miss Frances Fagan, Miss Grace Connally, John Nolan and Wilfred Yeagan, and the host, Mr. Parker.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson Give Housewarming

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Richardson entertained a group of friends at a housewarming Friday evening at 1093 Austin avenue in honor of Mrs. Jack Neitz, of Richmond, Va., the guest of her daughter, Miss Doris Neitz, and also celebrating their return to Atlanta for residence. Mrs. W. B. Burdett presided at the punch table and assisting in entertaining were little Misses Margaret Barton, Constance Causey, Dorothy Barnett and Mary Lawrence.

The St. Patrick's motif was carried out in the decorations, featuring green and white. Fifty guests were present to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, who have returned to Atlanta after an absence of several years.

Bridge Tournament

The third in the series of contract bridge tournaments and lectures sponsored by the women's auxiliary to the Fulton County Medical Society will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Academy of Medicine, 38 Prescott street.

Mrs. John H. Byrle directs the playing. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. O. S. Cofer, Dearborn 3905.

Mrs. Hartney Fetes Sorority at Dinner

Dunwoody, the rustic home of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hartney, was the scene of an Italian dinner Friday evening when Mrs. Hartney entertained members of the Alpha chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, of which she is a member. The history and literature of Italy are now being studied by the group and the dinner was served as an example of Italian culinary.

A study class, conducted by Lillian Wade, educational director, was held during which the life and work of Dante were discussed and a word picture drawn of his immortal "Divine Comedy." The guests included: Edith Bowles, Anna Belle Jackson, Katharine Sneed, Lucy Wheeler, Mrs. Lucile Saunders, Mrs. Abbie Turner, Miss Mary Virginia Walker, Miss Ann Story, Miss Fay Watts, Miss Florence Turner, Miss Lillian Holder, Miss Florence Warr, Mrs. M. B. Bateman Jr., Mrs. J. B. Wrenn and Miss Lillian Wade.

Council Circle To Present Play

Friday, March 18, "The Sinner Beloved" will be presented by Circle 3 of the Peachtree Christian Women's Council in the Sunday school auditorium. The dramatization depicts the story of the prophet, Hosea, and his errant, runaway wife, whom he found on the slave block and redeemed.

The play, which was written by Phillip Osgood, D. D., was selected by the federation of churches as the best religious play of 1931.

Miss Ada Lewis, local dramatic artist, is directing the play and elaborate costuming and stage lighting effects have been arranged. Miss Louise Sacre has the leading role, portraying Hosea, while Mrs. A. W. Heden is taking the part of the wife, Jem. Others taking part include Mrs. J. B. Crouch, Mrs. Robert Bush, Mrs. W. Neely, Miss Connie Freeman, Mrs. R. C. Hicks, Hilda Summers, Mary Ellen Summers, Maried Heden and Norman Mitchell.

The Grady Hospital Auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. E. Stewart, has established a splendid record. Many gifts have been made to the hospital, among which are six incubators, six special lamps, 15 awnings, 40 sun suits, a sewing machine, a basinet, window ventilators, dishes and pictures.

Those desiring to assist in this worthy cause are requested to send checks, made payable to Grady Hospital Auxiliary, mailed to Mrs. E. Stewart, 737 Sycamore street, Decatur, Ga. The hospital will be able to purchase at wholesale price the linens needed if desired response is made to this urgent need.

Business Women's Week Stresses Responsibility to Community

National Business Women's Week came to a close Saturday. In addition to co-operation with local merchants, the annual public relations dinner, which is a civic as well as a social event, and the bringing of a special federation speaker, Miss Stella Aiken of Savannah, to emphasize the contribution to be made by business and professional women, the program included the promotion of a vocational survey and the conduct of a contact booth in one of the local department stores.

Quoting Miss Letta Thompson, president of the local business and professional women: "If during National Business Women's Week we made a little more clear our desire to promote better relationships and to bring about a better understanding of woman's responsibility to the community, the efforts put forth have been decidedly worth while. Through the medium of the committees which are responsible for the work of the federation—program, membership, education, legislation, research, etc.—we have endeavored to outline the objectives of the national organization through the state and local level."

Expressing the opinion that women will play an important part in bringing about legislation which will vitally affect the social and economic welfare of citizenship, Mrs. Etta Lou Brenner, chairman of the legislative committee, in an interview during the past week, discussed woman as a citizen.

"Legislation, once a formidable subject, is now a known quantity, so to speak, among steadily increasing numbers of women," said Mrs. Brenner. "What political progress women have made since enfranchisement in 1920 is a question being asked by many groups interested in woman as a political factor. It is a comparatively short time in which to use the measuring rod against her accomplishments and effectiveness as a full-

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Last year I had to give up a career that was a glorious adventure and return to a dreary and commonplace existence in a small town. Up to the time I left home two years ago I had had a happy and orderly life, knowing nothing of other places and other people. But since being on my own and making the acquaintance of interesting people I don't seem to fit in here. All my ideals, romantic and otherwise, were wrapped up in a man whom I had known and loved since childhood. He was the standard by which I measured every other man and none of them met his standard. Now you have trampled on my love. My great friend has disappointed me. One blow after another has fallen on me and I have begun to feel that the fates are against me.

So here I am. I have no confidence in myself, or in men. The very thought of trusting another man makes me shudder. I want some help to pull myself out of this depression, some help to restore my faith. I want a normal outlook on life. I want to be happy and serviceable to my fellow men at the same time.

ANSWER:

Disappointments do one of two things to most of us in this life: They either embitter us or they act as dynamics to drive us on to the promised land of hope and desire. In any case they leave us sick and weak for a time and it is in this period that we have opportunity to think and to plan for the future and by means of these thoughts and plans to pull out of the slough of despond in which every soul-shattering experience thrusts us.

You can't interest a sick man with talk about good food. He wants to hear about the medicine that will make him well. Neither can you comfort a jilted woman with the sweetest love story. She needs to hear of the other things in life that will cure her aching heart. She, perhaps, would rather hear you utter a distributive on the fickleness and unfaithfulness of men.

The village is not an unhappy place in which to live unless it is a stagnant place into which no breeze of the outside ever blows. And if you have been abroad breathing that air why not undertake to give some whiffs to those less fortunate?

There is no excuse for any one that can read and write to be marooned in these days. It is not even necessary to have the price of transportation to see the world and acquaint yourself with the great and the near great that make it interesting. The mails, the wires, the very ether bring everything to your door. You have but to open the doors to admit life.

Edith Wharton is writing a serial story in one of our magazines in which she has one of the characters, an author, discover a truth that you may well consider; that real creative effort springs from adversity rather than congenial surroundings and contentment. Under the strain, nervous and physical, of a great sorrow the man was able to write his books. But when the emotional tension was lax and love and life were smooth once again the thoughts wouldn't come, the words wouldn't fall in line. The pen was sterile.

And so it is likely that you will discover that the desire and consequent effort to "pull yourself out of this depression" will be a yeasty agitation, setting up a ferment in your life that will raise both your ambition and your ability to be serviceable and therefore happy. Yeast must have something tangible to work on in. So must ambition. Get something started, if it is only some simple activity. Don't sit at home and pine and pity yourself. You may lose the dynamic if you do.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

The Defense Against Squeeze Plays

BY ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"Some squeeze situations are born and perceived in the beginning of the hand, some are achieved in the course of play, and others are sometimes thrust upon the player through no ingenuity of his own," writes Mr. A. H. Peron, of Chicago. His discussion of the underlying principles of defense is so interesting that I give it with an example hand.

To the average player squeeze plays remain somewhat of a mystery; the workings of a strange and relentless fate. When you consider the rather crushing effect of having a squeeze administered to you, it is not so surprising that so many players, when defending, have developed a sort of juggernaut attitude toward the matter, regarding it as an invincible god beneath whose oncoming wheels one must be crushed without hope.

Even the advanced player who is in the habit of successfully negotiating squeeze plays is often unable to defend himself against them. And the reason for this is that he doesn't notice the approaching wheels until they are practically upon him—and then it is too late.

The way to beat squeeze plays is to undermine and destroy the particular situations which are necessary to effect squeezes. The need and opportunity to do so occur far more frequently than most players think.

"West opens with the heart King and follows with the Queen. East playing the three and five, he knows South has no more heart trumps, so much the better; and he proceeds to 'pump' the bidder according to defense rule. He is fairly confident of saving game. A club trick seems and a diamond trick very probable.

"Imagine his surprise and consternation when the last trump led by South finds him in this embarrassing position:

"The spade five forces West to give up a trick in any of the three suits, which is sufficient for Declarer to make his contract of four spades. 'Too bad,' sighs West. 'It was inescapable.' Of course, the reader has by this time discovered for himself how the contract could have been beaten. After cashing his two heart tricks and receiving no come-in signal from his partner, West comes to a justified pause. If he plays another heart, he will be compelled to hold his Knave of hearts so long as the ten and an entry remain in Dummy. He realizes he cannot afford to do it. He has very few cards he can afford to discard so South take it into his head to run off that bunch of trumps which has undoubtedly been furthered, he sees that with one neat, swift stroke he can absolutely pulverize Dummy. So he plays the club King, draws Dummy's only trumps and a skeleton is the result. The Declarer from now on plays alone. No squeezes are possible.

"South must lose 2 more tricks and fails to make the contract."

Declarer through the use of squeeze plays. Such plays can frequently be guarded against if the defending player recognizes the situation in time.

THOMASVILLE SEEKS HOME FOR ROSE SHOW

Movement Begun To Secure Park on Which To Build Cabin for Event.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 13.—A movement is being planned to secure funds here to erect in the local Paradise park a building to be used as a permanent home for the Thomasville annual rose show which is held on the last Friday in April each year.

The Thomasville rose show, which has been held every spring season for 10 consecutive years, has grown to be the chief feature of the floral festival in the entire south and attracts many thousands of flower lovers. The attendance for the past three years has run in excess of 20,000 people.

Covering the land in the park is a forest of large long leaf yellow pine trees, and it is proposed to erect in the center of the forest a building of logs, with ornamentation of rustic type, to house the rose show, and to be used also for other civic purposes.

The Thomasville rose show, which has been held every spring season for 10 consecutive years, has grown to be the chief feature of the floral festival in the entire south and attracts many thousands of flower lovers. The attendance for the past three years has run in excess of 20,000 people.

Covering the land in the park is a forest of large long leaf yellow pine trees, and it is proposed to erect in the center of the forest a building of logs, with ornamentation of rustic type, to house the rose show, and to be used also for other civic purposes.

A.C. WEEMS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF GIDEONS

Convention Ends in Savannah Sunday; Atlanta Next Meeting Place.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 13.—(AP) Albert C. Weems, of Milldegeville, was re-elected president of the Georgia Gideons at the two-day tri-state convention which closed here Sunday. Other officers elected were P. Wade Vaughn, Atlanta, first vice president; F. B. Waterman, Macon, second vice president; L. D. Yeargen, Rome, third vice president; Charles Tillman, Atlanta, chaplain; J. Leon Repress, Atlanta, treasurer, and C. T. Grizzard Sr., Atlanta, secretary.

The following were chosen as trustees: T. B. Hamm, now a resident of Lynnhaven, Fla., but still a member of the Georgia Gideons, chairman; Neil Leggett, Jr., Atlanta; J. Lawrence McCord, Atlanta; Ned McCord, Atlanta; L. W. Turk, Atlanta, and F. C. Debele, Savannah.

A new address was chosen as the place for next year's convention and the date was tentatively set for March 11 and 12, the same as this year. It was decided to seek to make the meeting a southern affair, with the Gideon organization from a number of states in this section invited to participate.

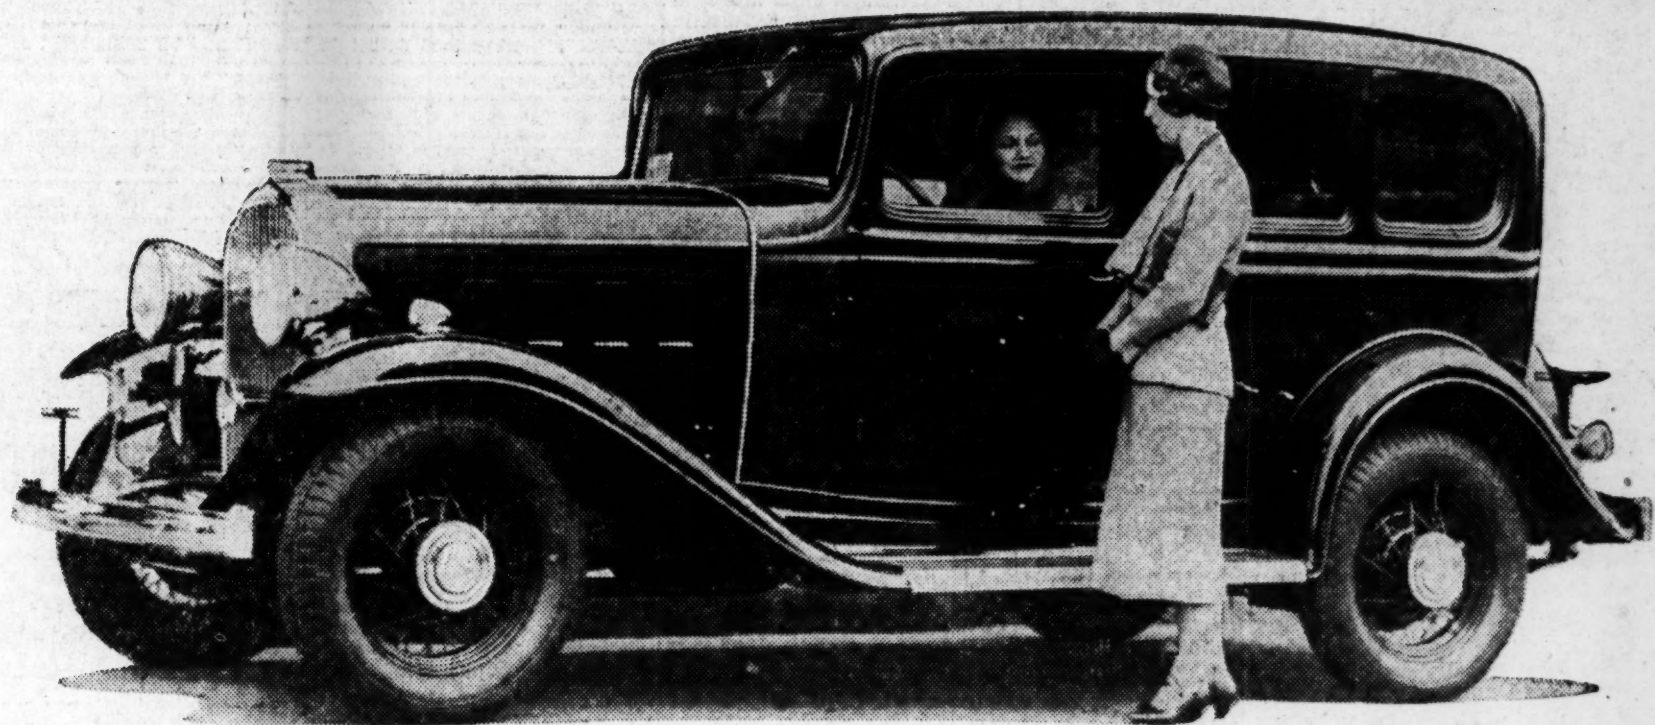

Will H. Hardin, Atlanta, international trustee, was the toastmaster at the banquet Saturday night.

F. Wade Vaughn, of Atlanta, made an address on evangelism at the banquet, dwelling on the Bible and the fact that all men spread the message of Christianity. The Rev. C. A. Linn

This cartoon represents the TITLE of a well-known motion picture, a movie that played in Atlanta not so long ago.

Remember—only the TITLE is represented. In no way is the artist trying to describe a scene from the picture. The artist couldn't if he wanted to. Everytime you ask this artist to draw something serious, he eats lobsters and gets sick.

Anyway, this cartoon represents the TITLE of a movie. Underneath the cartoon there is a list of titles, and in this list you can find the CORRECT TITLE represented.

This is one of a series of 30 cartoons, all humorous (at least the young children think they are).

You can have the entire set of cartoons FREE merely by mailing in the coupon printed in the lower right corner of this page. There is an accompanying list of titles with each cartoon.

As to the prizes, we print a picture of the brand-new Buick Sedan on this page. Also, The Constitution will award $2,500.00 in cash, of which $1,000.00 will go to the winner of first prize—the same person who wins the Buick.

There's no doubt but that somebody is going to win this car, plus $1,000.00, within a few weeks.

The wise thing to do is to mail in the coupon printed in the lower right corner of this page and get full details. You can never tell. You might win. Just remember—the man who won $25,000.00 in the Camel contest didn't think he had a chance.

Any person who has ever won as much as $1,000 in Any previous contest is barred from winning in this contest.

Business Discards Fears, Looks for Brighter Picture

BY FRANK H. McCONNELL.
NEW YORK, March 13.—(UP)—Business showed further readiness last week to discard its blue goggles and take a good look around in expectation of finding a brighter picture if it looked far enough into the future.

It found, among other things, that many of the early winter buyers had failed to materialize and, as Dun's Review says, "Most merchants, doubtless, were suffering from an over-supply of fears than from an under-supply of income."

In fact, several reports from the merchandising field indicated the possibility that the first faint revival of public buying was beginning to appear. On the Pacific coast and in several other middle western and far western states, a moderate improvement in business was reported.

Activity in women's wear was better; the shoe trade continued at a satisfactory pace; spring hardware sales advanced 5 to 10 per cent above last year's corresponding level, and, wholesale prices showed fair stability.

The week's improvements, however, were largely confined to the lighter lines of goods. In the heavy lines, such as steel and automobile manufacturing, there was reported a better undertone of confidence, but actual business continued near the dull level of February.

The copper trade was reported to have made some progress toward better times, however. Principal producers reached an agreement in principal covering two essential features: the restriction of production to about 20 per cent of capacity against the prevailing 26 per cent rate, and on rules whereby Copper Exporters, Inc., the important central agency for selling copper throughout the world, could be operated more harmoniously.

The independent copper producers, it was explained, have still to agree to the curtailment program, but with the principal part of the world's producing properties in line it was said that the independents might show greater willingness to co-operate.

The automobile industry remained one of the principal question marks of business. Some producers showed gains in operations. Nevertheless, orders for steel requirements failed to register any great gain and the steel industry was still in its all too familiar posture of sitting still, and waiting.

Regardless of this absence of large new automobile orders, the steel industry gained slightly on strength of miscellaneous new orders for odds and ends. A slight increase in structural business was also reported by some mills. For the industry as a whole, production stepped up to 27 per cent of capacity, as estimated by "Iron Age," a gain that was less than seasonal, but none the less welcomed as it registered some improvement over the preceding week when production schedules were at 26 per cent of capacity.

Wide attention was centered by businessmen on the proposed tax schedule of the federal government. Aside from the controversial aspects of the sales tax plan, business leaders devoted study to the suggestion for the practical reason that they wished to learn just what effect such changes would have upon prices. Representatives of the government reported that business was ready to accept the new burden of taxation, and this statement was vouchsafed as accurate by several leading executives of industry who expressed the belief that higher taxes would not stand long as a barrier to business once it becomes apparent that the turn has definitely been reached.

BOND MARKET VALUES INCREASE BY BILLION

BY VICTOR EUBANK.
NEW YORK, March 13.—(UP)—After adding over $1,000,000,000 to their market values since February 1, listed bonds took a rest toward the end of last week and permitted traders to go home with substantial profits.

Led by United States government issues, all classes of securities moved steadily upward during the week, many loans daily establishing new high records for the year. Dealers, however, forecast a "healthy reaction" and it appeared Friday. It was the first day of this month the average showed a decline.

Even under fairly heavy realizing, most bonds displayed a firm undertone and losses were generally moderate. High-grade mortgages especially refused to give up any major portion of their previous gains.

The underlying strength of the loans market was attributed to various factors that were viewed as constructive. Better sentiment appeared with the Glass-Steagall credit expansion law. Also approval of the financial district was given to the treasury's plan of issuing $900,000,000 in short term certificates for March refinancing. This issue was oversubscribed four times.

Popularity of the railway section was switched to utilities and industrial issues during the week. Loans of communications and power and light companies were in demand. Some of the oils also turned upward.

Nickel Plate 6s, due next October, were the feature of the transportation group. These bonds reached a high

COTTON INACTIVE AT NEW ORLEANS

Week Shows No Price Trend With Erratic Fluctuations as Feature

NEW ORLEANS, March 13.—(UP)—The cotton market here during the past week was decidedly erratic, only moderately active, and devoid of a price trend. Values fluctuated from a dollar a bale, with net results showing but narrow price differences at the week's close.

The market early in the week was influenced to a considerable extent by sharp advances in sterling exchange, causing a drop in commodity values abroad. But Liverpool, and the Alexandria, Egypt, markets developed weakness, and it was also feared that the fluctuations in sterling exchange might affect exports of cotton from this side of the Atlantic.

The market was more or less supported during the past week in the cotton region, heavy rains being followed by freezing weather to the coast line. Freezing temperatures in south Texas, where early cotton has already been planted, are said to have done damage. The weather likewise delayed farm work, making for a late start for the new crop.

The demand for spot cotton showed some falling off during the past week at all the southern markets, due no doubt, in some measure, to the sharp upturn in sterling exchange. On the other hand, exports continued liberal and stocks on shipboard awaiting clearance are much larger than last year at this time. The indications are for continued good exports.

Secretary Hester's weekly statistics were considered bullish, particularly the mill takings. The British board of trade statistics for February, issued near the end of the week, were considered rather bullish and reflected the reported better export trade from Manchester, mentioned in recent

The range in the cotton future market for the week:

	High	Low	Close	L. Y.
March	8.90	8.80	8.91	10.61
May	7.11	6.96	7.00	10.86
July	7.26	7.13	7.16	11.11
October	7.40	7.32	7.33	11.40
December	7.62	7.49	7.50	11.61

of 74 7-8 compared with a low last December of 14 1/2. They slipped back, however, on Friday and Saturday. Missouri Pacific issues also had a relapse due to uncertainty regarding further loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The foreign section attracted some attention. The Argentines, especially, came into favor and all 10 of this country's listed dollar loans registered new highs for 1932. British bonds, after a substantial advance, reacted and German securities moved irregularly due to the Sunday election in the reich.

U. S. Steel Production in '31 Drops 15,000,000 Tons

NEW YORK, March 13.—(UP)—The United States Steel Corporation is prepared to meet steel requirements considerably in excess of the 1931 consumption, J. P. Morgan, chairman, and James A. Farrell, president, said today in the annual report of the corporation.

"In 1931 the production of raw steel in the United States declined to about 26,000,000 tons," the report said, "a reduction of 15 millions of tons compared with the preceding year and 30 millions of tons less than were produced in 1929. The production in 1931 was but 46 per cent of the 1929 output."

"The average annual production during the 10 years, 1922 to 1931, inclusive, was 43,000,000 tons, compared with a production of 26,000,000 tons in 1931."

"It seems reasonable to suppose that on the basis of average domestic demands for steel products during the past 10 years, the requirements of this country for maintenance and current uses alone, exclusive of development and expansion, should call for steel products on considerably greater tonnage than was consumed in 1931. To meet these demands at an economical cost of production and distribution the properties of the organization are admirably equipped, organized and located."

Operations of the corporation during 1931 declined from 50 per cent of capacity early in the year to a low of 24 per cent in December, averaging 38 per cent for the year, against an average of 65.6 per cent in 1930.

PRICE LEVEL OF CURB SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.
NEW YORK, March 13.—(UP)—Price trends were divergent in the curb market during the past week with the general price level showing little change at the end of the period.

Weakness of Electric Bond and Share, one of the most active issues in this market, was conspicuous late in the week, reflecting omission in the offered dividends by its subsidiary, American and Foreign Power, and some uncertainty over payments on other bond and share investments. The stock dropped to a new low in active selling. Some of the other utilities were under moderate pressure at times, notably American Gas and Electric and United Light "A."

Utilities in an "insult group," however, reflected a lifting of the recent pressure in the quarter, as it was unofficially understood that banks were co-operating in plans toward extending or refunding loans to members of the group. Such issues as Commonwealth Edison, which had a weekly petroleum statistics showed a marked reduction in refinery operations, leading to the hope that checked production was at last being checked. These shares were held back, however, by expectations that the several 1931 earnings statements yet to appear will be decidedly adverse.

Industrial and investment issues were in the main narrowly changed. Aluminum Company was under some pressure at times.

GATE CITY MATTRESS ENJOYS LARGE TRADE

Paul G. Hornbuckle, president of the Gate City Mattress Company, of 925 Edgewood avenue, reports that so far this year business is much better than for the corresponding period last year.

"We are not surprised at this," says Mr. Hornbuckle, "for the mattress business has made such wonderful strides in the last few years and the housewives are becoming pretty well aware of the fact that renovating or making over an old soiled, lumpy or hard and uncomfortable mattress into a clean soft one is money saved and well spent."

"A very pleasing part of our business these days is the fact that we can offer to our customers better grades of ticks than many of the old mattresses we renovate have on when they are bought new, and when we return the old mattress we receive a few hours before we have the pleasure of hearing most everyone in the household express great delight in the change we wrought in their mattress in so short a time."

"Some of our new patterns in mattress covers this year are really very beautiful, and yet the surprising part of it all is we have not in many years done mattress renovating work as cheaply as we are doing it at this time. This makes the high praise we are receiving all the more gratifying, and these well-pleased customers are in most cases telling their friends and neighbors about what good mattress work we do. Invariably, just after we do work for some people in a section we have not been doing work in previously, we begin to receive calls from people in that same general neighborhood."

In the matter of rendering good service, we make it very convenient for our customers. All they have to do is to give us a ring at Jackson 3861, one of our outside salesmen is soon at the customer's house with our large assortment of new and standard patterns, and when the customer makes her selection, the mattress is brought in and always returned at the customer's own appointed time."

WESTINGHOUSE REPORT SHOWS LOWER INCOME

NEW YORK, March 13.—In line with quieter business which affected the company, particularly keenly in the final quarter, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company suffered a loss of $3,655,650 in 1931 against a net income of $1,881,703.

In their annual statement to stockholders which is now in the mails, A. W. Robertson, chairman, and F. A. Merrick, president, state that unfilled orders on hand at the end of the year totaled $4,024,390 against $4,208,151 the year before and $62,025,393 at the end of 1929. Large orders in connection with the Pennsylvania railroad's electrification project largely account for the present substantial total.

The company's surplus was reduced to $7,030,324 from $95,375,912 the year before. Among the changes was one of $9,996,548 for payment of dividends on common stock and a special charge of $5,671,379 which included provision for the depreciation of marketable securities to market value of $115,393,082 against $182,283,579 for 1930 and $216,364,588 for 1929.

The company had 31,276 average number of employees on the pay rolls during 1931 against 43,327 the year before. Pay rolls amounted to $55,980,470 against $81,921,432 in 1930. The full force of the economic depression struck the Westinghouse company during 1931," the report states. "The struggle to live within

Cathcart Van and Storage Prevents Loss of Valuables

W. Lawt Inglis, president of the Cathcart Van and Storage Company, of 124 Houston street, tells an interesting story of an event which occurred in the trunkroom of the large fireproof building some months ago.

Due to the extra precautions taken with trunks belonging to those storing household furniture with his company, the trunks are stored in two specially constructed rooms, and in addition to the customary locks on a trunk before placing in the trunkrooms, a rope is run around each one and sealed in such manner that even if the lock is opened or broken, the lid cannot be opened as much as an inch without cutting the rope.

With such precautions as this, locked trunks, roped, sealed and kept in thick cement walled rooms with heavy iron barred doors, no trunk can be opened except with the aid of Mr. Inglis or one of his bonded assistants, and as no customer is allowed to touch or move any other customer's trunk, Mr. Inglis makes the trip in particular to the trunkrooms, accompanied by a handsome and very attractively dressed woman who had stored a few days previously another trunk, applied the doors of the trunkroom locked and both parties were again in the main office, the whole transaction having taken only five minutes.

Such matters being only routine, the incident would ordinarily have faded out of Mr. Inglis' memory. But without less than an hour two men rushed in breathlessly, inquiring if a woman of the customer's description had been in there that day, and if she had carried with her a package of any description. The men identified themselves as federal officers.

The two men then expressed a desire to see the trunk from which the package was obtained, and their request was complied with; however, Mr. Inglis pointed out that only under a court order could they examine the contents of the trunk, as all of their customers' property was protected alike while in their warehouse. The men, however, advised Mr. Inglis that the contents of the package removed earlier in the day contained what they were searching for, and that the trunk now contained only the lady's personal effects. As the federal men were hurriedly leaving to search for the customer and the package, one of them remarked that the package was believed to contain over $30,000 worth of narcotics, and he again they had missed the "customer" by only a few jumps.

Mr. Inglis and his co-workers wondered for several months as to the outcome of the search for the lady and her valuable package, and were very much surprised one day to see the customer call in person for her trunk. She noted with satisfaction that it had not been tampered with, having

● Cotton cloth for Hindus by the Ganges and candy for Park Avenue debutantes; electrical machinery for Soviet Russia and lenses for astronomers high up in the Andes—these products represent only four of the 285 industries in this country served by the Associated Gas & Electric System.

Geographical areas served are as varied as the industries they contain. Twenty-six states and 3,100 communities are numbered. Customers in these communities total 1,443,000. Service is extended to 1,189,141 homes, 169,874 stores and buildings, 25,197 farms and factories.

Diversified Service brings More Steady Revenue

If business is dull in some areas, the Associated System has others upon which to rely... if a dozen industries are experiencing poor seasons, the System serves 273 other industries... if all industry averages below normal, there are 1,189,141 Associated domestic customers whose use of electricity, gas and other services continues. Associated homes used 8.3% more electricity in 1931 than during the previous year.

8% Eight Year Guaranteed Bonds

The Associated Gas and Electric Company is offering 8% Eight Year Guaranteed Gold Bonds (participating conditionally to 10%). Consolidated earnings applicable to the guaranty after depreciation are approximately nine times the interest on $40,000,000 of these bonds at 8%.

Generous Income Return—Initial interest on these bonds is 8 1/2% with 7% paid on partial payments. The bonds, which mature in 1940, are available in units of $10 and multiples. They carry warrants entitling holders to purchase Common Stock at $5 a share during a fifteen-year period on the basis of one share for each $100 of bonds.

Use of Proceeds—The proceeds of these bonds, which at the completion of this financing will have a junior equity upon which there has been paid in over $650,000,000, will be used primarily for paying obligations which are already ahead of all securities of the Company.

Confidence in Associated securities as expressed by investors is indicated by their number, 190,000, at the end of 1931. This represents a gain of approximately 20,000 during the year. Present security holders have the first opportunity to buy the new 8% Eight Year Guaranteed Bonds. Purchases by others are subject to confirmation.

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 43

In Trohanadalmak, city of the Ant Men, the ape-man lay asleep upon a bed of grasses. He had a great tree growing just outside the city. His ear close to the ground, Tarzan was suddenly awakened by a strange reverberation. It seemed to come faintly from the bowels of the earth. Dim and distant it was, but to Tarzan's keen ears it was an interruption of the ordinary sounds of night and so of sufficient import to force itself upon his consciousness.

Awakened, he knew now that it was on the earth's surface, probably at no great distance and coming close rapidly. Then a great light dawned upon him and he sprang to his feet. The dome of King Adendroahkik lay a hundred yards away and toward this he hurried. Just before the south entrance he was challenged by a tiny sentinel. "Take word to your king," the ape-man directed him. "That Tarzan hears many diadets galloping toward the city and unless he is mistaken carries a hostile warrior upon its back."
